WAR DANGER IN ABYSSINIA ITALY MAKES NEW CHARGES MUST ACT TO REMEDY SITUATION

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, May 7, 9.50 a.m.)

Rome, May 7.

More than ever, there is danger of a clash between Italy and Ethiopia. In face of the situation in Abyssinia, the Fascist Government can no longer delay action, warned the Under-Secretary for the Colonies, addressing the Chamber of Deputies to-day.

It is necessary, he said, to face the question and solve it once and for all. The problem of Italy's relationship with Abyssinia was pressing, he insisted.

A crowded House heard Signor Lessona, the Under-Secretary, in an atmosphere of tense excitement which has prevailed since the announcement of new mobilisation orders.

Signor Lessona charged Abyssinia with violation of the Italo-Abyssinian Treaty of friendship. He said that satisfaction had been afforded in only one of the three bloody frontier incidents of recent date.

But of greater importance than these incidents, shocking as they were, was the proof of Abyssinian ill-feeling against Italy.

He went on to assert that as against Abyssinia's failure to honour the Treaty, Italy had met one of the Ethiopian Emperor's most fervid wishes in granting a free zone in the harbour of Assab, and also trade facilities in the East African colonies. The truth was that Abyssinia was holding very serious and threatening intentions towards Italy.

Rome, May 7.
It is officially announced that the reservists of the 1913 Class and also the second native division in Eritrea, are mobilising. Together they will make possible the placing of 284,000 men on a war footing. This action is being taken because of the "heavy supplies of war materials recently sent to Addis Ababa by European factories and because the Ethiopian mobilisation measures make it necessary to take steps to guarantee the security of our East African colonies."—United Press.

It was undeniably a fact, said Signor Lessona, that the Ethiopian Empire did not represent an honourable or unitarian state, and hence the necessity arose to clear up the situation.—Reuter.

MUST HAVE SECURITY

Rome, May 7.
Italy is entitled to see that attacks, such as those which occurred at Valul and Afdu from the Abyssinian side of the frontier, shall not be repeated. This was the statement of the Under-Secretary for the Colonies, Signor Lessona, speaking to the Chamber to-night.

Italy wanted respect for the treaty of 1928, so that her colonies in Africa might look into a tranquil future, he went on.

He added that Abyssinia, by force of arms allowed them by the complacency of European powers, had destroyed three native kingdoms in the past forty years and had formed a large colony where systematic slave trading was carried on.

The Chamber was incensed at reports from Italian Somaliland that an Italian soldier, while drawing water from the river, was murdered by an Abyssinian and robbed of his arms and valuables. At present there are about 150,000 Italian troops on the frontiers of Italian Somaliland and Eritrea, and equipped for a campaign in the desert. For weeks past the Abyssinian tribesmen have been mobilising.—Reuter.

RUSHING ARMS TO ABYSSINIA

EUROPE FILLING ORDERS

ITALY KEEPING CLOSE WATCH

Rome, May 7.
A Foreign Office spokesman here to-day emphasised that one of the most important questions with regard to the Abyssinian situation was what arms are being imported. It is known that a large quantity are being brought into the country, mostly machine-guns, and Italy wants to know Abyssinia's intentions.

"European nations," said the spokesman, "are furnishing arms to these natives who have been ordered to shoot down the white Italian citizens of Eritrea and Somaliland. It is essential therefore that Italy should be prepared. Signor Mussolini will not tolerate such a situation."—Reuter.

CAN ALSO "ACT"

London, May 7.
Italy is still ready for a friendly settlement of the disputes with Abyssinia, and is ready to appoint members of a Conciliation Committee, but Italy is prepared to act as well as talk, Reuter learns from Italian sources in London.

Abyssinia, it is learned, is arming as rapidly as possible to meet any emergency which may arise. The country possesses 900,000 rifles, 1,500 machine-guns, seven tanks, 300 field guns and some antiquated weapons. But she has long-standing orders with European armament firms. It is reported that Abyssinia has 700,000 men mobilised.

DEATH OF MR. H. R. LANDOLT

PASSES AWAY IN SYDNEY

His many friends in Hongkong will learn with regret of the death of Mr. H. R. Landolt in Sydney yesterday. The news has just been received by his family in Hongkong.

Deceased was the son of the late Mr. J. Landolt, who died in Hongkong recently, and was a well-known resident here. Before he took ill and went to Australia some 18 months ago, he played hockey for the St. Andrew's Club in the Mamak tournament. He was only 29 years of age, and he was married three years ago.

A brother, Mr. J. S. Landolt, of the Canadian Pacific Steamship Co., and a sister, Miss E. Landolt, are in Hongkong.

Quiet Day At Palace

LONDON STILL IN HAPPY MOOD

TRIBUTE TO POLICE

London, May 7.
The King and Queen spent to-day quietly at Buckingham Palace, and it was authoritatively stated that neither had suffered any ill-effects from the strain and excitement of Jubilee Day.

This afternoon, the Queen went for a drive in the West End and was heartily cheered by the crowd which had continued throughout the day in the neighbourhood of the Palace. Many members of the Royal Family, including the King's uncle, the Duke of Connaught, called at the Palace and saw Their Majesties, afterwards inspecting many beautiful Jubilee presents received from personal friends.

Their Majesties still have an arduous programme of engagements ahead of them, extending over a fortnight or three weeks.

To-morrow, the King will drive to St. James' Palace, where he will receive members of the Diplomatic Corps at a levee and reception. The Prime Minister and the Brazilian Ambassador, as Doyen of the Corps, will make addresses to the King, who will reply returning thanks to all those countries who have congratulated him upon the attainment of his Silver Jubilee. Telegrams from all parts of the Empire and from communities abroad continue to be received at the Palace in their hundreds.

POLICE THANKED

London's celebrations, which continued until early morning, when many streets both in the East and West End were filled with singing and dancing crowds, were resumed this evening, when more sightseers came to inspect the decorations and charming floodlighting effects in the parks and on main buildings.

The complete success with which the Jubilee crowds were goodly and unostentatiously handled by the police has aroused general admiration, especially of visitors to London. To-day the King sent a message of appreciation and thanks for the excellent police arrangements made for his visit to St. Paul's, and for the safety and comfort of the public, to the Commissioner of Police for the City of London.

CHARITY BENEFITS
About £10,000 will be available for charity as the result of the sale of grandstand seats for the public procession. Of 26,000 seats available, 6,000 had been placed at the disposal of the British Charities Association, and any surplus after meeting the cost of erecting the other 20,000 will also go to charity.

BRITAIN PLEDGED TO FIGHT

LOCARNO TREATY OBLIGATIONS

EMPIRE HEADS
AT PARLEY

London, May 7.
In the House of Commons to-day, asked whether, in the event of any alteration by Germany in the demilitarised zone under the Treaty of Versailles, it was to be understood that Britain would immediately go to the assistance of France, with the whole of its armed forces, under the Treaty of Locarno, Sir John Simon said the circumstances in which the British guarantee under the Treaty of Locarno would operate were specified in that Treaty itself.

As stated in the Anglo-Italian declaration embodied in the resolution of the Stresa Conference, the British Government stand by all their obligations under the Treaty of Locarno, and intend, should the need arise, faithfully to fulfil them.

The Prime Minister, replying to a Parliamentary question, said the Government were very anxious to put the House and the country in possession of all available information with regard to Germany's air development. This could not, however, be conveniently done in the form of a White Paper. As full a statement as possible would be made early in the forthcoming debate.

EMPIRE PARLEY

A further informal discussion on the international situation between British Commonwealth Premiers, the Prime Minister and United Kingdom Ministers, took place at 10, Downing Street to-day.

In addition to those who took part in the discussion on the last occasion, Mr. Forbes, Prime Minister of New Zealand, was present. There were also present the Dominions High Commissioners.

A general interchange of views with regard to the whole international situation took place. On the British side there were present the Prime Minister, Mr. Baldwin, Mr. Chamberlain, Mr. Thomas, Sir John Simon and Sir Philip Cunliffe Liston.

Further discussions will take place later. The Prime Minister of Canada, Mr. Bennett, returns to Ottawa on Friday.—British Wireless.

There will be further pageantry this week when, on Thursday, the King proceeds to Westminster Hall to receive a loyal address from both Houses of Parliament.—British Wireless.

RED FLOOD SUBSIDES

NO MENACE TO YUNNAN

Kweliang, May 8.

All the Red remnants, who failed in their attempt at penetration of Yunnan, have now crossed the Kishanking River, but it appears that they will not make any serious attempt to advance into Szechuen for the present.

According to an Army plane, returning from extensive observations at the front, the main body of the Reds is establishing its position in Huili and Huichuk Districts.

They suffered casualties when bombs were dropped from scouting planes on Monday.

The Red menace in Yunnan has entirely passed.—Central News.

MORGENTHAU TO DEFINE
U.S. POLICY

Washington, May 7.
House Silverites, who are dissatisfied with the progress of the silver purchase programme, have prepared a petition which, if signed by 217 members, would take the 16/1 Silver Coinage Bill from the Committee for consideration by the House. However, prospects of getting the necessary signatures are considered dim.

Meanwhile, speculation is general as to whether the Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Morgenthau will present some definite statement of the Government's course when addressing the country by radio on Monday night on the subject of the "American Dollar." It is stated that he will cover the subject comprehensively.

SCOTS LODGE PROTEST

DEMONSTRATION IN PARLIAMENT

QUESTION OF CROSSES

(Special to "Telegraph")

London, May 7.
Scottish M.P.'s playfully demonstrated in the House of Commons this afternoon against the purely English decoration in Westminster Hall for Thursday's ceremony, when Parliament will present an Address to Their Majesties.

The decorations consist of elaborate velvet St. George's banners, with six St. George's Cross flags. This "enormity" is aggravated by the predominance of St. George's flag over Government offices.

Mr. W. C. A. Ormsby-Gore, First Commissioner of Works, who, it was vigorously stated by Scottish M.P.'s, admitted that he had already received protests from St. Andrew's Societies, stoutly asserted that not only was Westminster Hall an English medieval building, but the St. George's Cross was particularly suitable, inasmuch as the Hall dated long before the Anglo-Scottish Union, while the Scottish Office in Whitehall was exclusively decorated with St. Andrew's Crosses, having no Sassenach symbol on the discussion, delivered a strong counter-attack, expressing indignation that the St. George's Cross was not represented at the Scottish Office, while the inhabitants of England and Wales have endured three Scotsmen in office—Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, Sir John Gilmour and Mr. Walter Elliott—besides the Archbishop of Canterbury.—Reuter Special.

BI-METALLIC CURRENCY

Washington, May 7.
Representative Compton J. White, Democrat of Idaho, to-day filed a petition to the House of Representatives to force a vote for a resolution creating a bi-metallic currency with a sixteen to one ratio of silver to gold.

To force a vote on the resolution the petition requires 217 signatures.

In submitting his petition, Representative White said: "It is apparent that the Government must replace the gold certificates which have been withdrawn from circulation by increasing the use of silver through purchases of silver with silver certificates. This would provide a means of controlled use of silver in the interest of a free currency which was formerly supplied by gold."—United Press.

SILVER DOWN

New York, May 7.
Messrs. Handy & Harmon quoted New York silver at 72 7/8 cents per ounce here to-day.

On the Foreign Exchange Market the dollar was easy in terms of gold and firm against sterling.

On the New York Cotton Exchange prices were two points higher to six points lower. Quotations fluctuated listlessly and trading was confined to routine operations with the trade furnishing the principal support. New crops finished lower while near deliveries were higher.

On the silk market prices were unchanged to one point lower. Trading was chiefly in the forward deliveries which sold at new low levels for the current movement.—United Press.

SMUGGLING SILVER

BANKS TAKING PRECAUTIONS

Tientsin, May 8.

Local financial circles are seriously concerned over the continuous outflow of silver, mostly through smuggling, from North China, although the system of supervising the cashing of banknotes at the native banks has produced the effect of checking on suspected or identified silver smugglers.

The Chinese bankers at Tientsin and Peiping will shortly hold a joint meeting to discuss various measures to co-operate with the Government to prevent silver smuggling.—Central News.

PACIFISM IS NOT ENOUGH

MAKING LEAGUE EFFECTIVE

CONSTRUCTIVE THINKING

BY LORD LOTHIAN

The figures of the National Peace Ballot prove conclusively that British public opinion is vehemently against war and that the great bulk of the electorate stand for the League of Nations as the road towards peace. But most people recognise, unasily, that somehow or other this does not suffice.

A free world ballot would disclose everywhere the same kind of majorities against war. The great majority of the nations support the collective system as established in the League. Even the United States supports that form of it in the Pacific which is represented by the Washington Treaties. Yet the competition in armaments has set in.

It is quite clear that shouting against war is not enough. If peace is to be achieved we must do more of that painful thing called thinking.

WHAT IS MEANT

First of all, what do we mean when we say we want "peace"? If we think for a moment we shall see that what every professor of political science will tell us is true, that the only way of ending war is to bring in to being the World State.

The State exists because it is the instrument—the only instrument—which ends war in the area it controls because it is able to bring about political and economic changes by pacific and not warlike means. So long as 600 States claim the full rights of sovereignty it will be impossible to end war, however much we may wish, or shout or pray for peace. Logic and all recorded history alike prove that, as Mr. H. G. Wells has been persistently saying for 15 years, the price of peace is not non-violence, but the political unity of mankind.

In the meanwhile, however, the peace movement has to concern itself with those more modest steps towards that ultimate goal which are within the range of practical politics. The immediate problem is to see if the League of Nations can be made an effective instrument for the prevention of war.

TWO LESSONS

There are two lessons to be learned from the painful but salutary League experience of the last 15 years. The first is that the League can only succeed if it can make Article XIX—the revision of treaties article—a reality. The view that modern wars are the product of deliberate diabolism on the part of politicians or armament makers will not bear analysis, though the follies of the one and the salesmanship of the other are contributory factors.

The major cause of war is the difficulty of making adjustments in the political and economic structure of the world before economic necessity or a sense of intolerable injustice produces an explosion. Just as grievances unaddressed produce revolution within the State, so grievances unaddressed produce war between States. The League can never succeed in preventing war if it is no more than a League to maintain the "status quo." If it is only that it will be an instrument for turning every local war into a world war.

SANCTIONS

The second lesson is not less clear. Article XVI, which binds

CHOCOLATE FRUIT CUPS

HERE is a new and decorative dainty! You require a tin of fruit salad, a three carton of thick cream, three bananas, two oz. plain chocolate, one oz. almonds, and a few glace cherries.

Drain off the juice from the fruit, cut up all the fruit into small pieces, and put in sundry glasses—any three or four for this quantity, as many as it will "go into," anyhow.

Slice one of the bananas, and divide equally with the fruit. Blanch the almonds, and split them in halves, and grate up the chocolate. The two remaining bananas must be peeled and mashed to a pulp, and when you have whisked the cream until it is stiff, add to this pulp. This mixture is heaped on top of the fruit, and covered in its turn with a thick layer of the grated chocolate, the finishing touch being the decorating of the top with almonds and cherries.

members of the League to combine in taking economic and possibly military sanctions against a nation which resorts to war without full use of Covenant procedure, will only work if there is irresistible force on the side of the League Powers and willingness to use it. It is true enough that in an anarchic world competitive armaments produce neither peace nor security. But if those who are for collective security through the League are disarmed, collectively weaker or less united or resolute than those who are dissatisfied and prepared to risk war, the use of Article XVI will also only turn local wars into world wars.

Consider the present world crisis. Fundamentally the unrest is caused by the need of finding justly and by pacific means the legitimate place and adequate economic opportunity on the one hand for Germany and on the other for Japan in the post-war world. If these things can be done and aggression prevented there will be certain peace in the world for a generation.

National Socialist Germany, indeed, is largely the product of the failure of the League to give Germany "equality" in the full sense of that ambiguous word by

TRAVELLER OF NOTE

STUDIES PROGRESS OF SURGERY

Shanghai. Making his annual trip to the great medical centres of the world in search of new developments in surgery, Mr. Vinzenz Mueller, president of V. Mueller & Co., one of the largest manufacturers of surgical instruments in the world, arrived here recently by plane from Peiping. Mr. Mueller's factory is in Chicago, although he makes his headquarters in Tuttlingen, Germany.

Mr. Mueller praised the hospitals of Peiping. "They are modern, up-to-the-minute," he said, "and the students they turn out there are very capable, as competent as any doctors in the world."

In India, Mr. Mueller will study the methods used in treating eye cataracts. Dust storms and the alkali nature of the country result in the Indian people having more cataracts than any other group in the world, he said.

Trips to the medical centres of Europe will conclude this year's study.—United Press.

the use of Article XIX, during the last fifteen years.

France and her Allies have been unwilling to disarm because they have been afraid of what an equal Germany would demand. And now Herr Hitler has made the situation still more difficult, after he had recovered arms equality by unilateral action, by raising doubts whether he will meet Britain's principal desire that Germany will come back to the League and try to settle her remaining grievances by its pacific procedure as a member of the organized European community.

Militarist Japan, on the other hand, is largely the product of the League being willing to apply Article XIX, but unable to apply Article XVI.

FACING CRISIS

Thus the peace movement is faced by a crisis. The old pacifism, like the old patriotism, is no longer enough. It is a sobering reflection to think that world war may eventually come if Europe cannot put Article XIX into effect, and that to make Article XVI effective where there is risk of aggression means not disarmament, but at least adequate armament, for nothing is more dangerous than threats which cannot be made good.

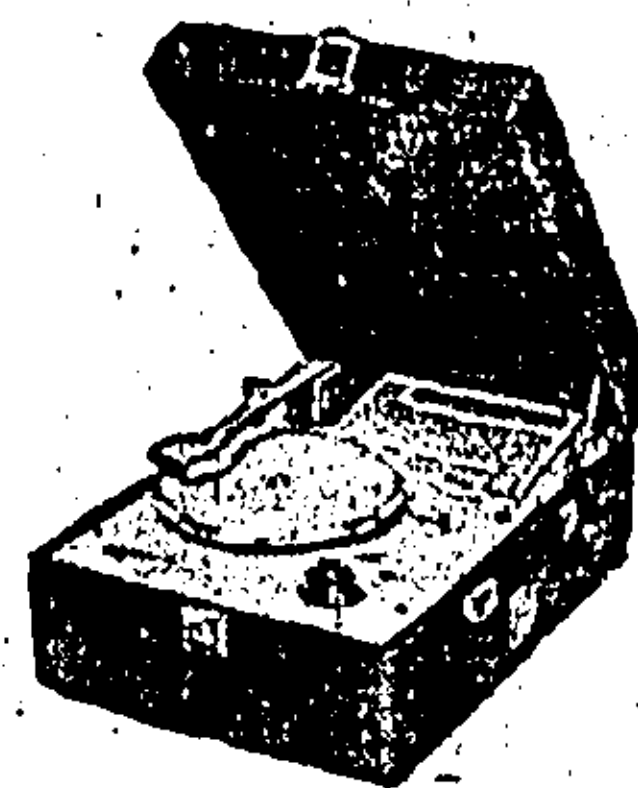

And what of that dubious compromise, the regional pact? We will not sign the Eastern Pact because the British people will certainly not undertake to march to war to defend the Western frontier of Russia or the Eastern frontier of Germany, or either frontier of Poland. Yet if we refuse and France signs some equivalent without us, how are we to prevent the Locarno Treaties from involving us automatically in a European war whenever an accident, a fool or a knave fires the train in the East of Europe?

Then there is psychology to be considered. Hitler is convinced that Bolshevik Russia is stimulating capitalist Europe to war so as to build revolutionary communism on its ruins, and therefore refuses to join a collective system with Russia. France is convinced that Germany is plotting the military hegemony of Europe and is moving back to the encircling Franco-Russian alliance. Russia is convinced that Germany means to get back the Polish Corridor at the expense of the Ukraine. And the Dominions are urging us to keep out of the horrid mess if the Empire is to endure.

It is impossible to attempt an answer until after Stresa. But one thing is certain. It is absolutely vital that Great Britain should continue that calm mediating mission she has so well begun.

THE DECCA PORTROLA

A complete all electric radio-gram in the compass of an ordinary acoustic portable. Something that—until the introduction of this truly remarkable little instrument was considered out of the question. But the seemingly impossible has been accomplished and DECCA—the inventors of the first acoustic portable—now introduce the world's first portable radio-gram.

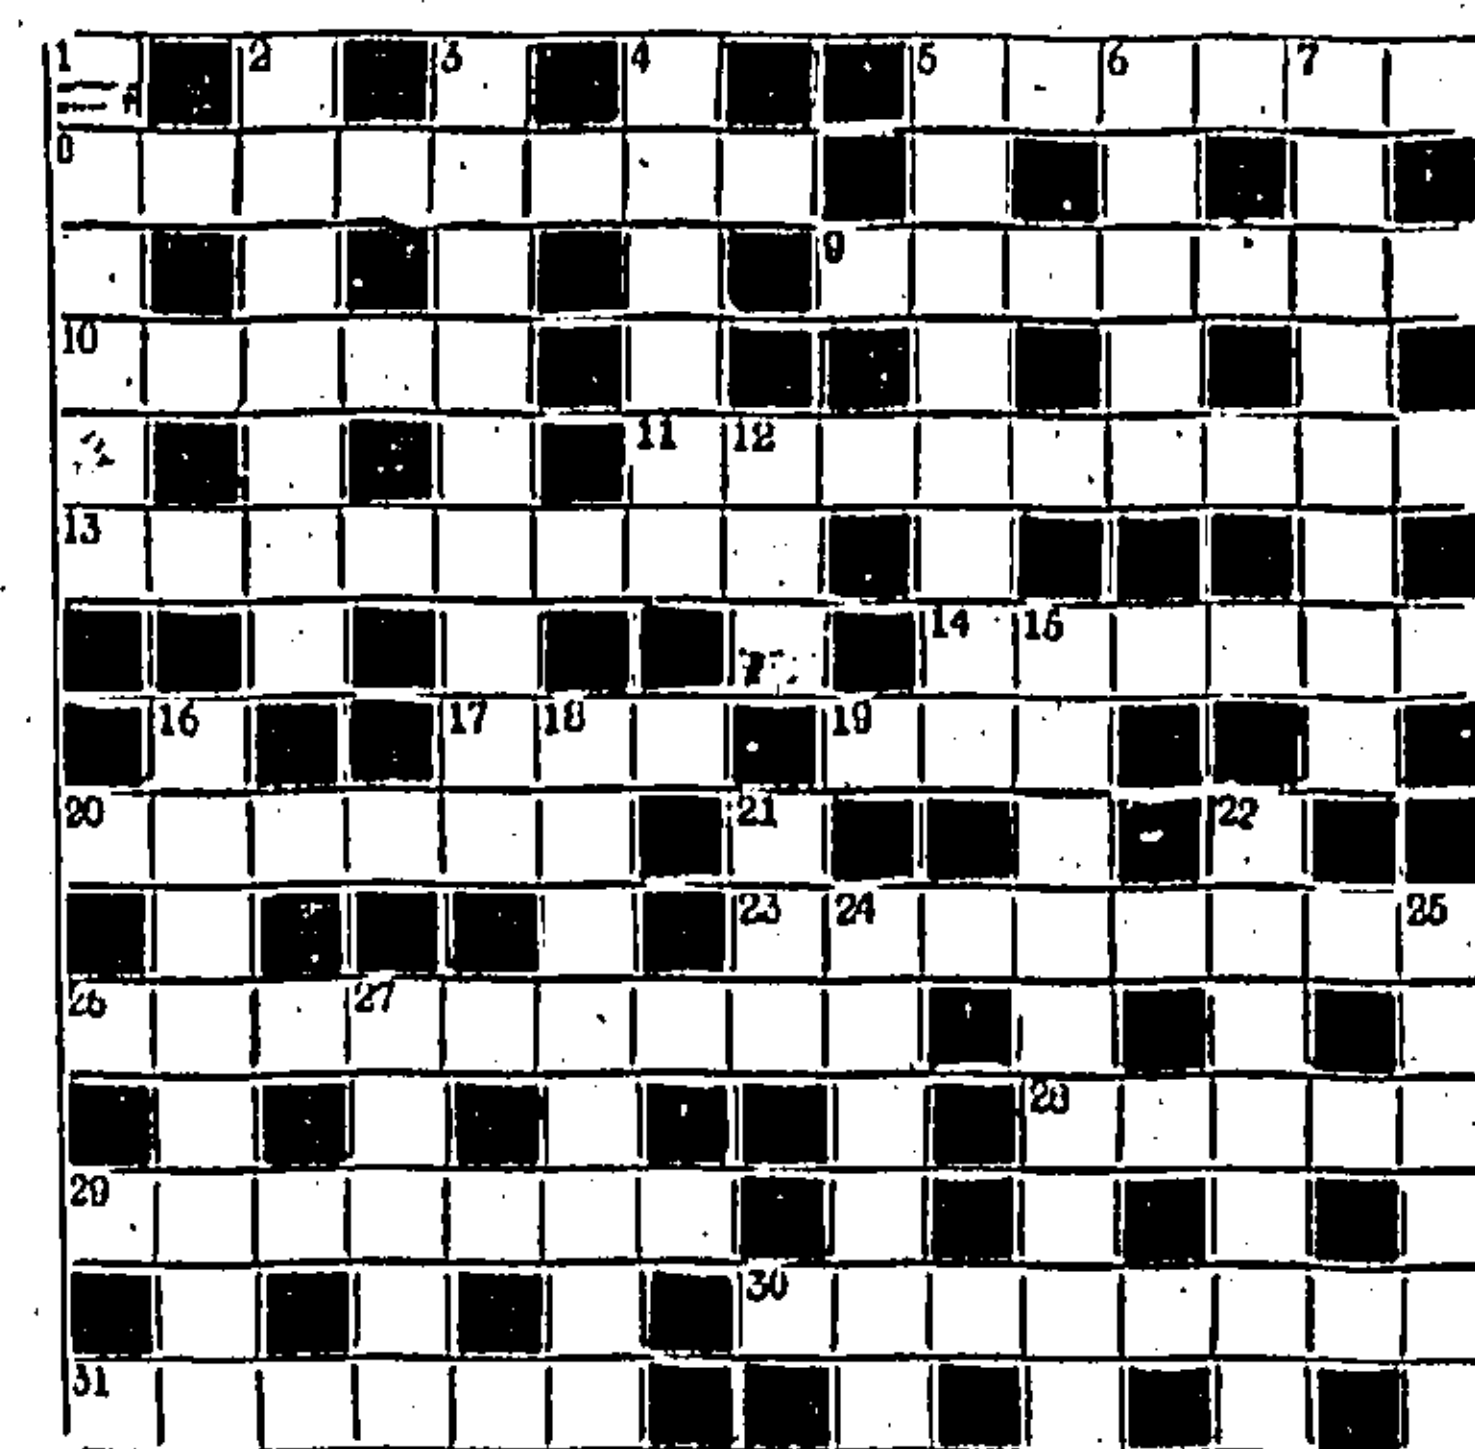

A marvel of ingenuity, the 'Portrola' is distinguished not merely for its portability and novelty, but it really is a highly efficient radio-gram, giving superlative results on radio or records and challenging favourable comparison with most multi-valve receivers.

MAXIM LITVINOFF AT HOME

INTIMATE GLIMPSE OF RUSSIAN DIPLOMAT

BY CATHERINE CARSWELL.

I HAVE before me as I write a recent snapshot of Maxim Litvinov and Salvador de Madariaga engaged in animated conversation at Geneva. The Basque, with his characteristic smile, gay and disarming, is emphasising his remarks by a prodding forefinger on the Russian's chest.

The Russian, who hates nothing more than to be touched by anybody, is smiling too, but with a reserved amusement which is equally characteristic. I smile also as I recall how these two men, both married to old and intimate friends of mine, and both living at the time in Hampstead, first met one another in my house.

It was about 18 years ago, and therefore long before any of us could possibly have foreseen the very different circumstances in which they would later approach each other. Thinking that, as Continentals and keen students of politics, they might be interested to meet, I asked their wives to bring them along for an evening's talk.

Last November I stayed with the Litvinovs at their country retreat that is half an hour's run from Moscow by car. It is called the "datcha" (or cottage) but, like so many English "cottages," is a fairly commodious villa, to which

M. Laval and Mr. Eden may possibly be invited this week, as one of its purposes is to enable the Foreign Minister to do his less formal and more intimate official entertaining. Entertainment on the grand scale takes place, of course, in the Kremlin, and official talks are held in "the Big House" or Narkomindel.

In the "datcha" with its severe furniture and high, pale-washed walls (Litvinov always disliked the low Hampstead ceilings) the People's Commissar sits working in a huge club chair before a huge table, while at his elbow a huge amplifier blares out dance tunes, or whatever may be the wireless item of the moment, into his unlistening ear, to the affliction of his family whose notions of what aids concentration are different.

Whatever may be the anxieties of a political career in Russia, there is one respect in which the lot of a Soviet Minister is enviable. So far as the State can see to it he is removed as far from private worries as from private property.

He need not think about money. His so-called salary—a matter of £300 or so a year—is no more than an allowance for ready cash. Anything in reason for his own use or the hospitality devolving upon him he can have on a scale of modest comfort, and of a kind in accordance with his own tastes.

And who would not rather "have the use of" a motor-car than own one? I have little doubt that this admirable arrangement has been an important factor in the admitted success of Soviet foreign policy during recent years. The Commissar for Foreign Affairs is able to give undivided attention to his job.

The Litvinovs' town home is typical of the best that Russia has to offer to its leading citizens. It is merely part of a converted house, consisting of a long, narrow passage, with light but not large rooms off it all along one side—one room, that is, for each of the family in which to work and sleep, and one little room where they all meet for meals or, at other times, retire singly to play the piano.

In addition there are a tiny kitchen and a bathroom. With the exception of the dining-room, each apartment has a desk and a bed. (Wherever you visit in Moscow there is always somebody sound asleep on one of those day-and-night couches.) "Papa's" room is so near the front door that people entering are apt to pass it without noticing it, which is precisely what is intended.

SHOWS TASTE

In Mrs. Litvinov's room there are Bokhara hangings (the cheaper the cheerfuller) and one or two well-chosen pictures on the light blue walls. She is out most of the day teaching basic English to young soldiers and peasants. When she is at home, she is preparing for her classes or getting herself ready for a lesson in harmony, at which she works with enthusiasm, as does her son, Misha, in the intervals of learning about the construction of aeroplanes and the behaviour of gliders.

His sister, Tania, who is a couple of years younger—now 16, is studying philology, and to this end she is reading Latin and Greek, which, after being for some years regarded as unnecessary subjects, have recently been readmitted into the Soviet curriculum. I imagine that, of all European statesmen, Litvinov is the most realistic. He detests functions and avoids personal publicity, being chiefly concerned to get things done and, for this purpose, to match his hard and clear-wits against those of other men. Of a man his highest commendation is to say that he is "clear-minded," of a woman that she is "practical."

BEAUTIFUL COUNTRY

At the "datcha" when he was not at work he went walking with his wife, his daughter and myself in one of the loveliest countryside I know. It resembles a Lilliputian Switzerland, having steep little hills, swift little rivers, and mingled wood of dark trees against which the groups of white Russian birches show up, as Mr. Bullitt, the American Ambassador, once said, "like a herd of giraffes." I remembered, walking so once by fieldpaths in Bucks, when Litvinov taught us a number of edible fungi not usually recognised as such in this country, and demonstrated his muscular skill by throwing my unsuspecting husband into the air with a deft twist of the leg in a sort of Russian ju-jitsu.

In this Russian walk we passed a cabbage-shredding machine in one of the collective farms, which was surrounded by shavings of the vegetable that is the Russian's staple food. I felt I knew my host well enough to pick up and nibble a scrap of it. He smiled and his small eyes twinkled. "Take care," he said, "you know you can be shot for that in Russia. Don't you read your own newspapers?"

Our walk over, we returned home to play at a corner of the huge work table, which is also the dining-room table, a childish card game in which the convention is that "Papa always cheats" and half the fun is to catch him at it. This is by no means easy.

DEPRECIATION

Amoy, May 7.

It is feared in local financial circles that a crisis may be created if effective measures are still unavailable to check increasing silver smuggling activities. In consequence of the heavy outflow of silver through smuggling from Amoy, local bank notes have been depreciated to about 90 per cent. of their face value. Big dollars, new or old, also command a higher rate of premium.

Four persons suspected of having connections with the s.s. Lukiang smuggling case have been arrested there by the police authorities.

It will be recalled that the s.s. Lukiang carrying smuggled silver to the amount of $200,000 was pirated last week on her way to Amoy from Putien. In the interior of Fukien.—Central News Agency.

ROTARY MEETING

MEMBERS DRINK THE KING'S HEALTH

The Rotary Club of Hongkong held its annual meeting yesterday, the President, Mr. M. K. Lo, being in the chair.

In opening the proceedings, the President said that, as an international club, he felt sure he would be interpreting the wishes of the members in asking them to drink the health of His Majesty the King. The toast was drunk with enthusiasm.

Mr. E. Baeti, on behalf of the non-British members of the Club, expressed their deepest gratitude to the Colony for the hospitality it had extended to them. At this time of universal rejoicing and the celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of His Majesty's accession, their sincere wishes were best expressed in the words "Long Live the King." (Loud applause.)

Two new members, Mr. A. B. Stewart and Mr. D. L. Newbigging, were welcomed to the Club.

President, Professor L. Forster; Vice-President, Mr. W. N. Thomas; Hon. Treasurer, Mr. N. J. Perring; Joint Hon. Secretaries, Mr. C. Champkin and Mr. H. Hong Sling; Directors, Mr. M. F. Key, Dr. Y. S. Wan, Mr. C. M. Manners, Professor R. Robertson, Mr. R. D. Walker.

Votes of thanks were passed to the retiring officers.

The New President

In acknowledging his election to the office of President, Professor Forster said he was more conscious of his inadequacy than of any qualification, but he held a firm conviction that Rotary was performing a very excellent service in the Colony in creating an atmosphere of friendliness.

The very fact that they lunched together he said, showed a desire to meet and to create that spirit of neighbourliness which the Prince of Wales emphasised some months ago. It was of no use expecting international goodwill and better relationships to be promoted through Government agency if individuals did not undertake to do their share personally. Rotary provided the means and the opportunity, adapting itself to the special conditions which existed in different communities. If members

MOBILIZATION!

ACTIVITY IN ITALY'S AFRICAN COLONIES

Rome, May 7.

Mobilization orders have been issued in order to guarantee the security of the Italian East African Colonies.

A communique says that this is owing to the heavy supply of arms that has been sent to Addis Ababa by several European factories clearly identified. Mobilization measures have also been taken by the Ethiopian Government, because of a speech recently made by the Emperor of Abyssinia.

Signor Mussolini has consequently given the order for the mobilization of the Sabaudia division, quartered at Cagliari, Sardinia, and also the first two divisions of Fascist militia, the Fascist Militia of Palermo, Cuneo, Ravenna and Gorli.

In order to bring other units on to a war footing the reservists of the 1914 class, who have only done six months service, has been called to the colours.

The High Commissioner of Eritrea, General Debono, has ordered the Chinea (as the drum calling for action is known there) for the mobilization of a second division.

The process of forming a new division, known as the Sabaudia Second, has already been undertaken but it will stay in Italy.

It is explained that under the law every unit sent out of the country must be replaced by a unit at Rome.—Reuter.

FAMOUS CHINESE WORK OF LITERATURE

Geneva, May 7.

The Chinese Government has presented the League of Nations with a complete copy of, "The Imperial Collection in Four Divisions."

carried on the spirit which had been created in the Club, they would be building up that basis of friendship which was so absolutely necessary in the modern world.

Opportunity was taken during the meeting to welcome a visiting Rotarian, Mr. J. W. Cairns, from Manila.

An English Doctor writes:—

"I find that 'Bisurated' Magnesia taken after most of my meals is the only thing that keeps me free from pain and discomfort, and I take it regularly. I often prescribe it for my patients, and have had very good results."
(Signed) Dr. H. G. M.A., M.R.C.S., L.R.C.P.

THE English doctor is the most conservative medical man in the world, and when he not only recommends but personally uses a remedy there can be no more convincing proof of its efficacy. This doctor is but one of many who constantly advise the use of "Bisurated" Magnesia in all cases of indigestion. Most stomach trouble is caused by acidity, and the reason why "Bisurated" Magnesia gives quick relief is that it instantly neutralises excess acid and soothes, heals and strengthens the inflamed stomach lining. Nothing could be simpler, safer or surer. If you suffer with indigestion or stomach disorder of any kind put your faith in European science and make an evil of your troubles by taking "Bisurated" Magnesia after eating or whenever pain is felt.

It is a source of constant wonderment to visitors to London that, in a monarchist realm, political firebrands should be permitted regularly to orate in Hyde Park and on the plinth of the Nelson Monument, preaching Republicanism, Communism and other extreme views. But the British reaction to this kind of thing is based on an amused tolerance which objects to nothing short of actual sedition. Hyde Park has well been described as Britain's safety-valve; here the Street orator may relieve his feelings to his heart's content, and he doubtless leaves the scene feeling that he has accomplished something. Few begrudge him such satisfaction as he can extract from his performance. Happily, political thought and expression are still free in England, which, in recent years, has had Governments of distinctly varying hues, including two Socialist regimes. But throughout all the changes, the Throne has stood aloof from the political hurly-burly, with the King ever the strictly constitutional monarch, performing his services to the nation with a single eye to its progress and well-being. There are Republicans in England, of course, but they are in a decided minority, with practically no following. H.G. Wells remains the unabashed Republican—"one of the most pampered and irresponsible 'advanced thinkers,'" he describes himself in his autobiography—"an uninvited adventurer who has felt himself free to criticise established things . . . who has been tolerated almost incredibly during this subversive career." Here, as one writer remarks, we have the key to wisdom: Britain's constitutional monarchy is based upon a tolerant non-interference. Anyone may talk or write as the spirit moves, so long as he does not preach sedition. If he can convince the majority, his is the right to govern; and that means the readiness of the Throne to act by and with the advice of the Ministers of any party which can convert the country to its political views. It is in this fact that we find one of the bulwarks of the monarchy. With His Majesty unconcerned in political doctrines is coupled the other fact that every non-political movement for the welfare of the masses has Royal support. Political platforms may become unpopular, but all the movements with which the King and

NOTES OF THE DAY

JAPANESE COMPETITION

"A pendant to our remarks on the agitation to subject Japanese cotton textile imports to a limited embargo is available in the current report on economic conditions in Japan issued by the Department of Commerce," observes the Christian Science Monitor. It gives the latest record of Japanese-American trade. In December, last year, and January, this year, when Japanese textile exports started to flow into the United States in accelerated volume, the figures (in thousands of yen) were:

	1934	1935
Japanese purchases from U. S.	113,454	92,325
Japanese sales to U. S.	30,477	34,677

In other words, Japan is buying three to four times as much as she is selling in her trade with the United States. Comparative figures do not show any diminution in Japanese purchases in the United States. On the contrary, they show a big increase. American exports to Japan in January, 1934, being only 51,877,000 yen, as compared with 113,454,000 yen in December, 1934, and 92,325,000 yen for January, 1935. Japan has thus doubled its purchases in a year. It has increased its sales, too; but not in the same proportion, the advance being from 25,892,000 yen in January, 1934, to 34,677,000 yen in January, 1935. Any action on the request for a limited embargo on imports of Japanese textiles which affect one section or one industry should take into account this thriving export trade, affecting several sections and industries—a trade which might be sacrificed by an embargo.

LORDS CALM

In the serene atmosphere of the British Upper Chamber noble Lords, with unruffled temper and much elegant argument, debated for two days the question of Socialism and the class war. Shades of their ancestors who haunt the Chamber might have been shocked by the admissions of peers, who have inherited the mantle of Toryism, that governments will not hesitate to plan and organise industry. The moderate Socialist, with his programme of gradualness, evidently has no terrors for the Conservatives of to-day. The Socialism that they denounce is of the brand usually connected with the name of Sir Stafford Cripps. Its programme spells revolution. It involves a sudden break with the present system, and a swift transition to another, untried in any country except Russia. It can be initiated only by a major political crisis. Both sides admit this, though the Socialists affirm that the crisis will be precipitated by resistance to their measures. So sweeping are the changes contemplated that few suppose they could be accomplished according to plan without resort to force. But one notes the calm and gentle academic reasoning with which those matters are discussed. For the fire-brand revolutionaries do not speak for all who call themselves Socialists. Nor do a majority of their political or trade union leaders desire the upheaval such conflict would bring. Nor is the danger so great as it seems, for as long as political leaders talk of reform by revolution their chances of winning a majority at the polls are slender. The more experienced know that well, and therefore refrain from the language of their more fiery associates.

DIAMONDS FROM THE DUSTHEAP

Some men are made poets by the times; others by the London Times. In an age of poetic fervour, like the Elizabethan, many men write poetry merely because it is the fashion to do so; and in the present there is at least one example of a gentleman who, when he thought that he was writing impeccable prose, was discovered by England's most famous newspaper to be composing poetry of a distinctly Wordsworthian quality. A leader writer on the Times culled from no more promising a source than the weather reports of the Meteorological Office the other day these striking lines—
The night was cold, and the exposed thermometer
Sank to the freezing point on Eskdalemuir.
The flattered author immediately volunteered the information that these lines were poetic only by the Royal Family in general associate themselves are invariably near to the heart of the people. To stand above party for the well-being of his subjects is something that King George has succeeded greatly in doing during his reign. And it is this circumstance which to-day invests both the Throne and the King himself with the loyal attachment and affection of Britons everywhere.

Our King and Queen on their Silver Jubilee

The King in Ireland and with the Prince of Wales.

Aside from the great war, one of the King's greatest worries was Ireland. Time and time again he sought to pacify that troubled people; he compromised, advised his ministers and did everything in his power, through personal appearance and through diplomacy to smooth the difficulties in the way of amicable relations between Ireland and the mother country.

Often the situation became so perilous that he actually risked his life by appearing in Irish cities. But he scorned this personal danger—in fact, the more assurance he had that any dan-

Our picture at left shows him, in the uniform of Admiral of the Fleet, as he acknowledged the cheers of the people of Belfast on the occasion of the opening of the Ulster parliament in 1921. It is significant that after every appearance the King made in Ireland, dissension lessened for a time.

The Prince of Wales always showed the greatest respect for his father. In practically every speech he made on his long tours

throughout the Empire, it was always the King, not the Prince, who spoke; the Prince made himself, in effect, merely a mouth-piece, though it is known beyond dispute that the Prince of Wales writes most of his own speeches.

mistake, and that he had never written another piece of poetry in his life. He may be one of a large company; and perhaps the rolls of history bear the names of many one-piece poets who have never had true justice done to them. Some of the brightest jewels in the crown of English literature consist of isolated lines and phrases, like "The rest is silence," or "Mine eyes dazzle." Such words are remembered because they occur in the works of famous writers; but maybe almost equally arresting lines lie unnoticed and forgotten in occasional poems that are neglected because their authors never wrote anything else at all or, anything else, worth recalling. One such phrase that has been salvaged is, "A rose-red city, half as old as Time," and another is "A crowded hour of glorious life is worth an age without a name." But in old magazines and periodicals and miscellanies may be many similar treasures now ignored. A diligent collector might make a very profitable anthology out of the diamonds scattered on these neglected dust-heaps.

"I'll bet he's going to be a writer or something—he's always studying types."

FINANCIAL RELIEF

LARGE SUM TO BE RAISED FOR SHANGHAI FIRMS

Shanghai, May 7.

As the result of a conference summoned by Dr. H. H. Kung, Finance Minister, and attended by representatives of Chinese banks and firms in Shanghai, a decision has been reached whereby a sum of $5,000,000, will be raised for the purpose of granting financial relief to the "wrecked" Chinese business and industrial firms in Shanghai.

The Central Bank of China and the Bank of China will each subscribe one million dollars to the Fund; and the Bank of Communications will subscribe $500,000, while the Chinese Banking Association will subscribe $1,500,000.

The remaining $1,000,000 will be raised by the Chinese Money Firms' Association.—Central News Agency.

DOWNING ST. MEETING

CONFERENCE OF BRITISH AND EMPIRE LEADERS

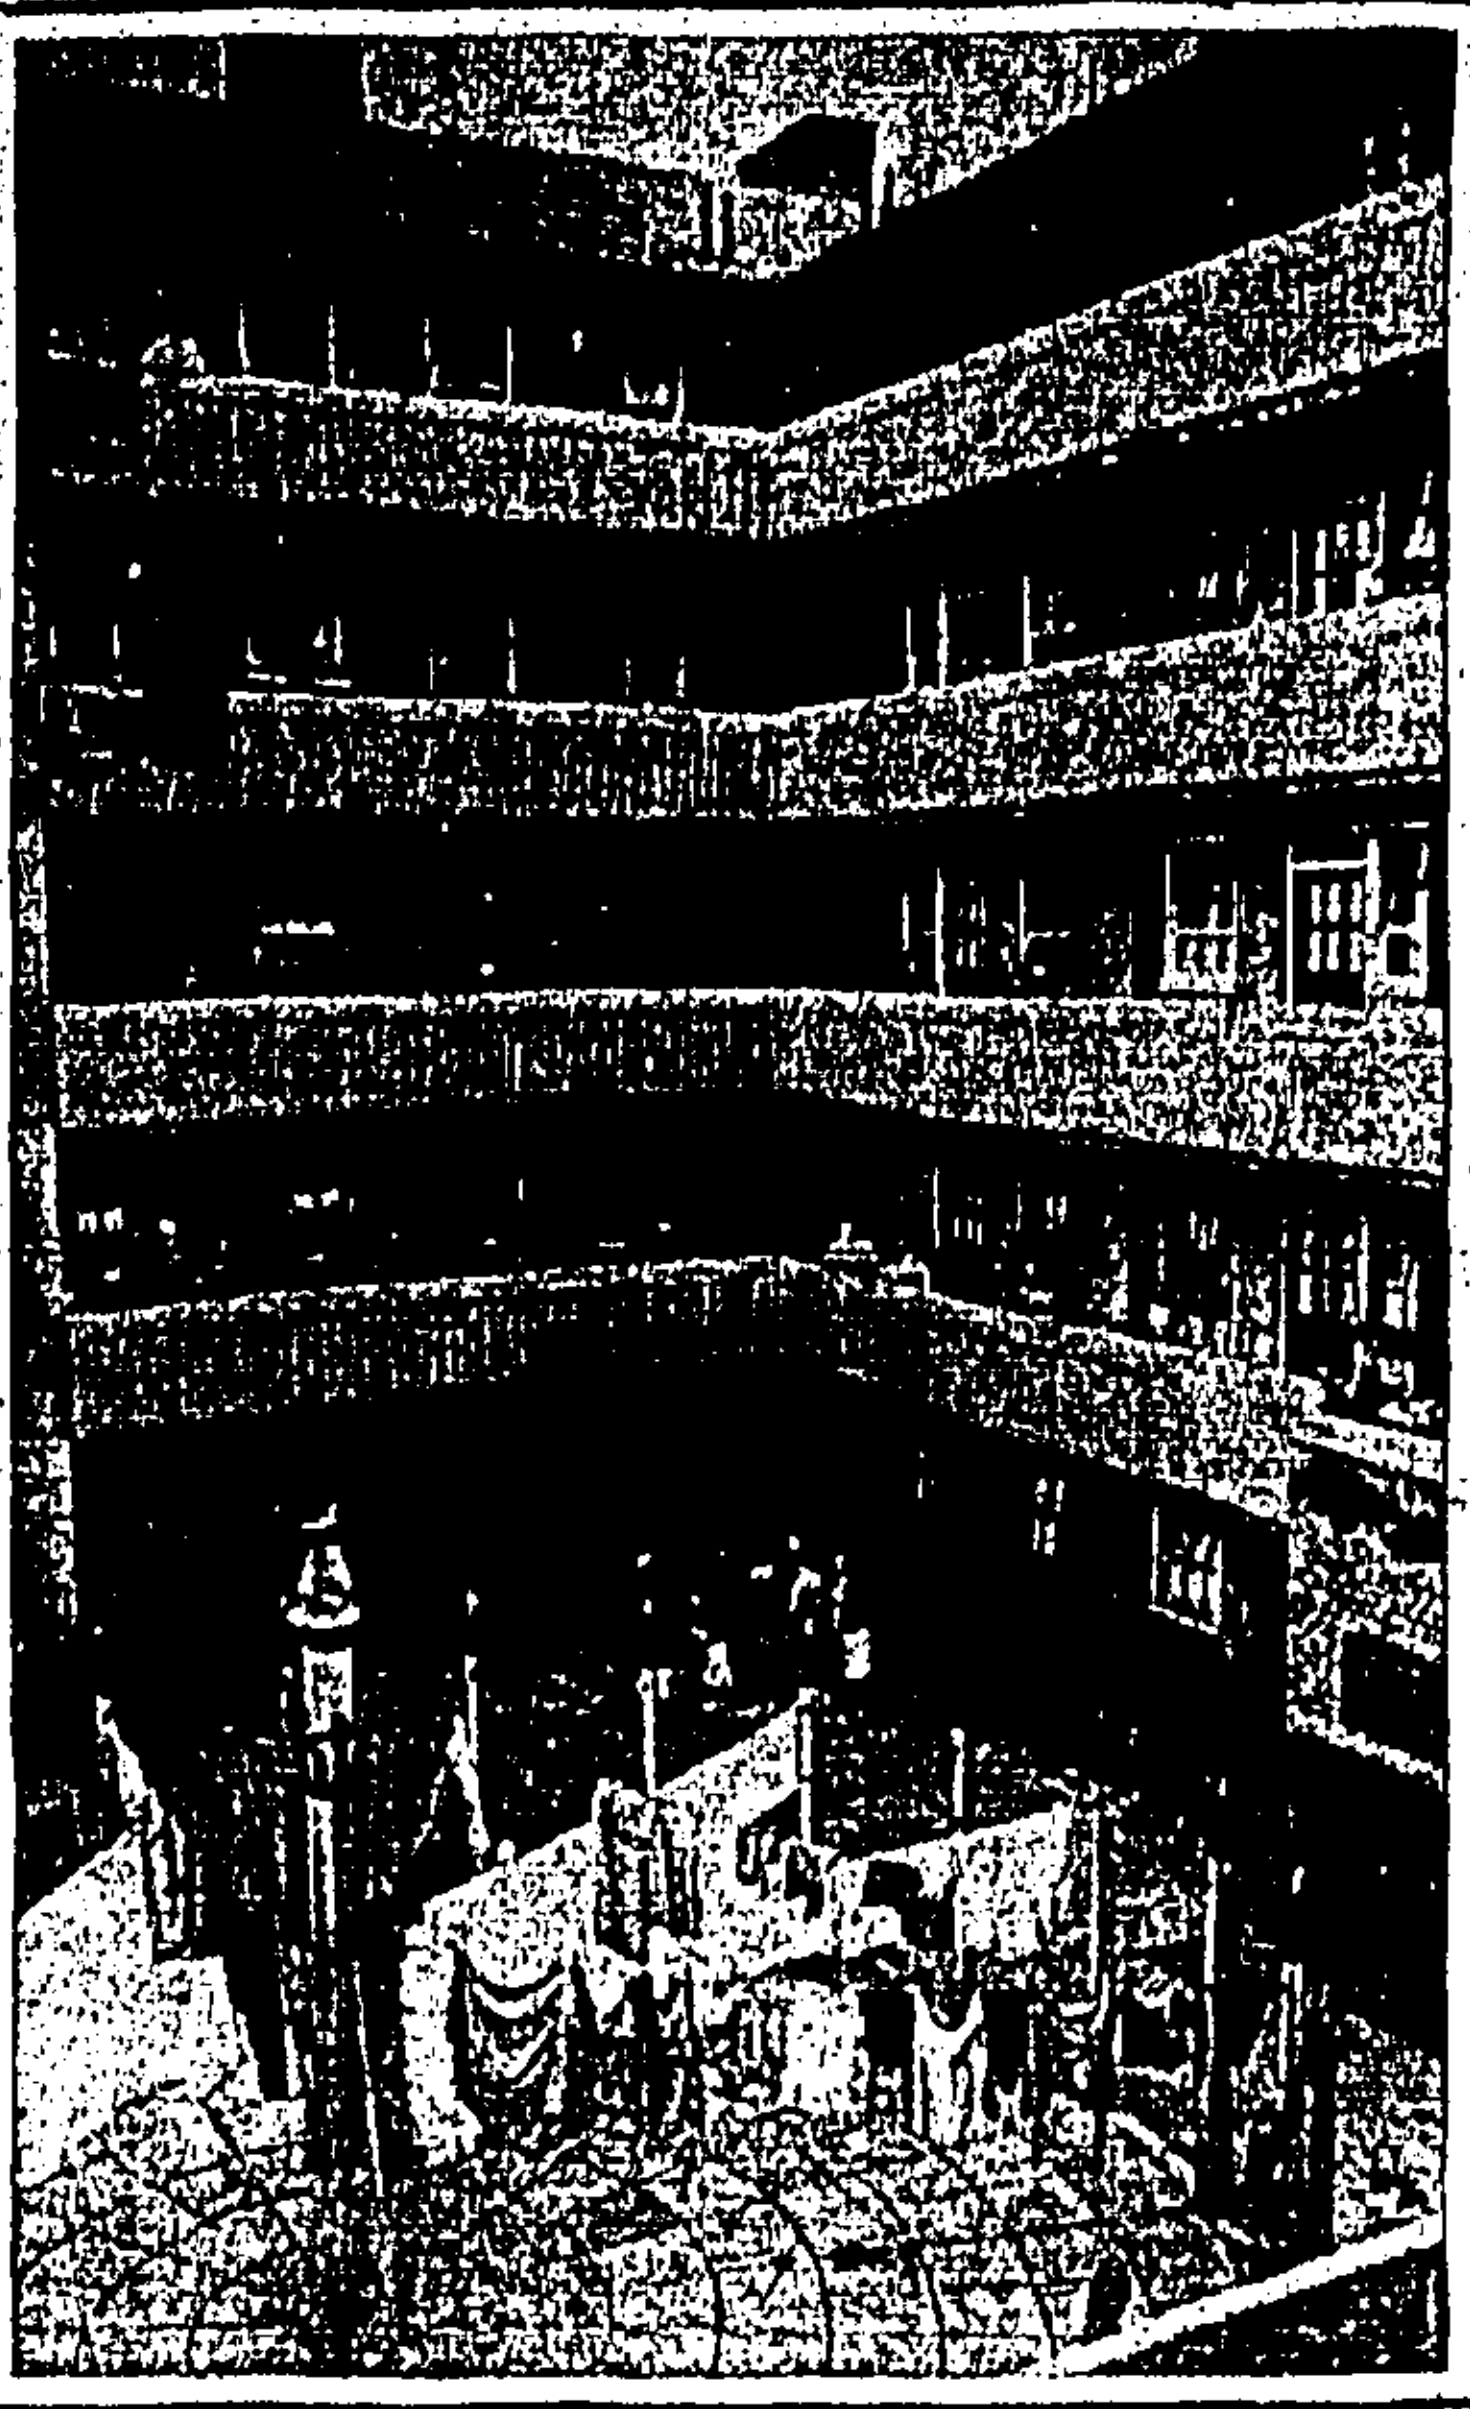

London, May 7.

The British Cabinet, represented by Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, Mr. Stanley Baldwin, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, Mr. J. H. Thomas, Sir John Simon and Sir Philip Cunliffe Liston met the Commonwealth Prime Ministers and informally discussed the International Situation for two hours at No. 10 Downing Street.

The Dominion High Commissioners were also present.

Sir John Simon, in a survey of the position, explained all that had taken place in this connection during the past few months and afforded information on various points.

A further meeting will be held later this week.—Reuter.

Slum clearance and re-housing is not all talk and not action in England, as these pictures show. The two photos illustrate graphically what can be done to alleviate living conditions in the poorer sections of large cities. No longer are families crowded into small quarters, devoid of sanitation, light and cleanliness. The picture at left shows a condition that England is setting about to wipe out. Every year for the next five years, 52,000 homes will be destroyed and 52,000 new homes and apartments will be built. The photo at right shows an apartment house, already occupied, which enjoys plenty of light and air space and which rents inexpensively enough for the lowest wage-earner. This is made possible through government subsidies.

366,000 BELOW BORDER

MOSTLY IN LONDON

The number of Scots living in London at midnight on April 26-27 1931, was over 360,000.

This is revealed in the latest census of England and Wales, which has been finished.

It has taken four years to complete this analysis and to tabulate the 39,952,377 men, women, and children, of whom details were given on the Census papers. The long series of detailed statistics already published is now completed by the issue of a volume bearing the prosaic title "General Tables."

Four years ago there were 366,486 persons living in England and Wales who were born in Scotland, while those with Irish Free State nationality numbered 303,676. In Greater London were 101,872 Scots or their children, while the figure for the Irish Free State was 86,741. From the Dominions and Colonies 225,684 persons were either residing in England or there as visitors.

The figures of those born in foreign countries reveal striking contrasts. Among European countries, Poland was returned as the birthplace of 43,912 persons—by far the highest total—while Russia was given by 36,139 persons. On the other hand, only 694 persons gave Yugoslavia as their birthplace. Those born in the United States numbered 37,420.

NEARLY 4,000 BORN AT SEA

"Born at sea" was given as the birthplace of 3,972 persons, while 139,248 did not state where they were born.

Officers and men serving in the Navy, Army, and Air Force who were on duty outside Great Britain on Census night numbered 131,930. There were 335 women, mainly on hospital nursing staffs abroad, while civilians enumerated in Navy, Army, and Air Force establishments in various countries numbered 228.

There were 156 persons in England and Wales who were 100 years of age and over. Women far outnumbered the men centenarians—120 against 27 males. Between the ages of 95 and 99 there were 2,278 persons (665 men and 1,713 women).

In institutions for insane or mentally deficient, cripples, blind, and other permanently disabled, there were 193,078 persons, and in workhouses and other Poor Law institutions 169,114 persons. Prisons, police stations, and other places of detention had a "population" of 23,562.

In civilian ships, boats, and barges were 60,061 persons, while the number of "all others (including vagrants)" was returned as 72,361.

EMPIRE BUILDER

'RULED 2,000 YEARS AGO

Nanking.

High officials of China this year formally remembered the 2144th death anniversary of Shih Huang Ti, ancient ruler who constructed the Great Wall, unified northern China under an empire, and from whose dynastic name of Ch'in, was derived the modern English word China.

Chinese government leaders, some of whom participated in the overthrow of the last emperor in 1911, placed wreaths on the tomb of an emperor of two millenniums ago, because that emperor faced and overcame problems similar to those with which present-day China's Government is confronted.

The ancient emperor came to the throne at a time when sectional and feudalistic conceptions were uppermost in the Chinese mind. Slowly, Huang Ti succeeded in decreasing the power of the feudal lords of the period and divided northern China into provinces, whose chief officers were responsible to the imperial throne. Such is the system which modern China's national government is attempting to enforce, attempting to subordinate sectional or feudalistic interests to those of national scope.

Huang Ti ordered the destruction of all classical literature, with the exception of works on astrology, divination, medicine and husbandry. Some 400 classical scholars who attempted to defy the imperial authority were buried alive. For this action Huang Ti was condemned by centuries of Confucian and classical scholars. But Huang Ti's purpose was to do away with the influence of ultraconservative scholarship which continually stressed the glories of the past and resisted progress. Modern China is not burning books wholesale, but it is attempting to root out ultraconservative beliefs and traditions which might hinder the government in its efforts toward making China a more prosperous, more healthy, and more orderly nation.

The incursions of warlike tribesmen from the north led Huang Ti to unite, strengthen and lengthen older barriers of the northern borders to form what is now known the world over as the Great Wall of China. To give added strength to the national defences, Huang Ti ordered the building of highways and digging of canals. Modern China is also building highways and strengthening its defences against foreign aggression.—United Press.

JUBILEE FOOTBALL FIXTURES

HIGHBURY MATCH TO-DAY

GAME AT EVERTON ON SATURDAY

Arrangements were recently finalised for two big representative football matches to be played in England during Jubilee week. At Highbury to-day an England eleven will meet a team composed of Scottish players with English clubs. It was not found possible to carry out the original plan and organise a full international between England and Scotland as the pick of the Scottish players will then be on their way to Canada for their summer tour of the Dominion and U.S.A.

On Saturday a Football League side will meet a combined Welsh and Irish eleven at Everton. The kick-off at Highbury will be 6.30 and at Everton 3.15.

All players will give their services free and will receive a silver souvenir. Both matches will afford an opportunity of giving further trials to the two-referee plan and under more exacting conditions than have yet been possible. Opponents of the scheme have urged that the test in the trial match at West Bromwich was not exhaustive. Their objection would be removed by having two referees in charge of the special Jubilee games.

FOOTBALL EXPERIMENT

DEATH-KNELL SOUNDED?

TWO REFEREES PROBLEM

By Charles Buchan

London, April 28. At a meeting held before the International at Glasgow, the Football League Management Committee practically sounded the death-knell of the two-referees experiment.

They issued a statement after long discussion, asking the League clubs to consider the matter individually and to state their views at the annual meeting in May on the advisability of asking the F.A. to grant permission for the system to be tried out in the League next season. As the majority of the clubs are against it, it means the end of an unwanted and unnecessary idea.

At the same time as the League meeting, the various county F.A.s were in conference in another room of the same hotel. One was informed afterwards that one of the subjects discussed was the two-referee business. The counties were unanimous in their disapproval and have decided to use every means in their power to ensure that it does not come into force. If ever there was an unwanted "baby," this experiment is it.

CRICKET HOPES AT OXFORD

A STRONG SIDE THIS YEAR

It is almost certain that Oxford University will have a strong cricket side this year, that is providing the players do not treat the game too seriously.

The season of 1935 is the young players' greatest opportunity and the universities will be expected to set the example and to prove that English cricket is still a game of enterprise and adventure.

At Oxford hope runs high, with the splendid material available. D. F. Walker, the new captain, though not so brilliant as his predecessor, P. G. H. Chalk, probably has a better cricket brain and a stronger flair for leadership.

N. S. Mitchell-Innes, of Somerset, is the secretary, and other old Blues in residence are J. W. Seamer, F. C. de Saran, A. P. Singleton, K. L. T. Jackson, and N. S. Knight. Three first-rate batsmen, a good all-rounder, a slow bowler of great promise, and a wicket-keeper with an unassuming style.

Then there are A. R. Legard, the slow bowler of two seasons ago, and J. H. Dyson, who after being picked last season, unaccountably lost his place. If Dyson could cultivate spin he would be an almost certain choice.

A USEFUL LEGACY

With nine such cricketers as the nucleus of the side, Walker has a very useful legacy.

Several of the Seniors are ready to take advantage of a slip by one of the more fancied candidates. As batsmen there are C. de launay, the West Indian, who has not yet done justice to his undoubted ability, A. M. Less, who has played for Hampshire, A. Benn (Harrow), L. T. Burrows, the Jamaican Soccer Blue, Sir de Villiers-Granft (South Africa), M. R. Barton (Winchester), R. Pullbrook (Harrow), A. A. Duncan, J. G. Halliday, and C. F. Grievie, the Rugby Blue. All these players are good enough to force their way into the team.

Oxford need bowlers more than batsmen. Among the Seniors, as slow bowlers, there are J. H. L. Aubrey-Fletcher, S. M. Kimpton, G. Parthasarathi, J. T. Burrows, and N. Cohen. All these can spin a ball and Parthasarathi bowls the "googly."

Fast bowlers include J. T. Reese, J. A. Brittain, I. R. Shield, and H. T. H. Snowden, who as a Freshman last year took six wickets in one innings.

PROMINENT FRESHMEN

Newcomers likely to make their mark are M. W. Walford, a hockey Blue; R. West, also from Rugby; T. G. L. Ballance (Uppingham); R. H. Angelo, the best cricketer at Westminster; J. L. Field (Charterhouse); and J. N. Grover, Winchester's clever wicket-keeper.

Other Freshmen of whom something should be heard are E. B. Calvert, (St. Lawrence, Ramsgate); R. C. M. Kimpton, an Australian, T. N. Leitch-Bennett, a slow bowler from Shrewsbury; R. E. Greenwell (Repton); M. D. P. McGill (Eton); J. A. Bratt (Durham); and E. C. B. Gilman (Bradfield).

The season opens on April 27 with a trial for Seniors, followed on May 1 with the Freshmen's Trial. Other games to be played in the Parks are against Worcestershire, Gloucester-

INVITATION FROM SHANGHAI

FOR INTERPORT TENNIS

A TRIANGULAR CONTEST

At a recent meeting of the Council of the Shanghai Lawn Tennis Association it was decided to extend an invitation to Hongkong to send teams comprising ladies and men to Shanghai for an interport series.

The Tientsin Association are due to send a team to Shanghai this season and it is hoped that a triangular contest will be arranged.

H. W. SUTCLIFFE SCORES

Herbert Sutcliffe, the cricketer, protested at Bradford Police Court against the manner in which he was pulled up for exceeding the speed limit.

"The police officer," he said, "pulled off a rather dirty cap and substituted a helmet."

Shire, Lancashire, South Africans, Yorkshire, Leicestershire, Minor Counties, and the Free Foresters.

The team then go for a brief tour before appearing again at Cambridge at Lord's on July 8.

Bowlers engaged at the nets are Emmott Robinson (Yorkshire), Walters (Oxfordshire), and Edwards (Buckinghamshire).

BRILLIANT START TO SEASON

BY ENGLAND'S CAPTAIN

London, May 7.

Brilliant batting by R. E. S. Wyatt, the Warwickshire and England cricket captain, has been a feature of the opening of the current season. Following his first matches he has now scored his third three-figure total in as many fixtures. He was playing for his county side against Gloucestershire at Birmingham and in addition to his contribution three other players made centuries in this game.

Warwickshire, however, lost on the first innings after they had scored 228 runs. Of these Wyatt contributed 103 without losing his wicket. Gloucestershire replied with a score of 300, Shindler being top scorer with 141 not out. When Warwickshire went to the wickets a second time they declared at 384 for seven, this time Dollery and Collin being the batsmen to worry the bowlers. The former scored exactly 100 and the latter 105 not out.

After a timid start to the season, Hammond came into his own in Gloucestershire's second innings and scored 66 not out in a total of 164 for four wickets.

There was only one other century scored in the county matches in addition to the four at Birmingham. This was in the Oval where Surrey won on first innings against Somerset. Wellard just missed the three-figure mark by a single run when Somerset were dismissed for 341. Sandham enabled Surrey to take their total to 349 before losing their last wicket. The veteran Surrey batsman hit up 110 runs. After Somerset had declared at 253 for six Surrey lost

CLEVELAND INDIANS' TEAM

TRAINING CAMP ACTIVITIES

MAJOR LEAGUE BASEBALL

New Orleans, May 6.

Those who suspect that Cleveland's pennant hopes were amputated with Bill Knickerbocker's appendix haven't been in New Orleans.

Down here they say that it was only a question of time until Roy Hughes replaced Knick at shortstop, anyway. They take into consideration that Knickerbocker is one of the great stars of baseball, too.

Knickerbocker? Why, they go all the way back to Cottonpot Turner and Ray Chapman in describing Hughes. And to Turner and Napoleon Lajoie, Chapman and Bill Wambaughs in painting a pretty picture of Hughes and Bozy Berger, Cleveland's new second base combination.

"I knew something would happen to poor Knickerbocker," says Buzz Wetzal, head of the Indians subsidiary in Zanesville, O., who discovered Hughes. "The young man was just meant to play short for Cleveland."

Hughes is a fighter, and has the habit of making sparkling plays in tight spots. Out of the amateur ranks just two years, the 22-year-old Cincinnati Irishman is an excellent base runner. Billy Evans, general manager of the club, says he's the best in this respect on the team, and his backers down here are saying that Knickerbocker, at his best, can't field with Hughes.

The youngster's swatting is a bit ragged, although he hit 350 at one stage last season with New Orleans, and finished with a mark of 299.

BERGER SURE HE'LL STICK

Berger, the other half of the combination, is a tall fellow fresh from the University of Maryland. He hit 312 last season with the Pelicans, and drove in 64 runs. He is exceptionally fast.

He comes up for his second trial with the Indians labelled "a sucker for a curve."

If he fails to hit them it will not be for lack of practice, for that's just about all the handsome chap from Washington is likely to see for some time, and the Indians' mounders are giving him plenty to swing at down here.

His only fielding fault is in connection with slow rollers hit straight at him. This he attributes to taking his eye off the ball in taking a peek at the runner. This is not a serious fault, although such a remarkable shortstop as Joe Cronin was unable

RESULTS AT A GLANCE

COUNTY CHAMPIONSHIP

Surrey (349 and 36 for 5) beat Somerset (341 and 253 for 6 declared) on first innings.
Gloucester (310 and 211 for 7) beat Sussex (283 and 222) by three wickets.

Gloucestershire (260 and 102 for 4) beat Warwickshire (228 and 388 for 7 declared) on first innings.

FRIENDLY MATCHES

South Africa (312 and 214 for 3 declared) beat Leicestershire (123 and 233) by 170 runs.

Oxford University (432) beat Worcestershire (191 and 235) by an innings and 13 runs.

Five wickets for 36 when stumps were drawn.

OXFORD'S BIG SCORE

Oxford University made an auspicious start with a total of 439 which enabled them to beat Worcestershire at Oxford by an innings and 13 runs. The County side were dismissed for 191 and then 235. A. P. Singleton taking five for 50 in the second innings.

The South African tourists followed up their victory against Worcestershire with a win from Leicestershire at Leicester where they had a margin of 170 runs in their favour. They knocked out 312 and then declared at 214 for three when Leicestershire were dismissed for 123. J. J. Crisp, the visitors' fast bowler, had five victims for 40 runs. In their second innings the English side were out for 233, the medium-paced spin bowler dismissed five batsmen for 49 runs.

It was left to Glamorgan to bring off the best performance of the series in their match against the strong Sussex side. Playing at Cardiff, the Welsh county won by three wickets. They scored 310 and 211 for seven in reply to the visitors' totals of 288 and 232.

THIS IS THE LAST OF OUR NEW FEATURE FOR BASEBALL FANS

to correct it until the last couple of years.

In regard to his reported weakness against curve ball pitchers, he says: "It's just one of those reputations a young player gets, and has to knock out of the opposition's head."

"Curve ball pitchers don't bother me any more than fast ball pitchers, or pitchers of any other type, as a matter of fact."

In a recent exhibition game with Washington, Jack Russell struck me right back with successive singles on identical pitches.

"There are worse second basemen and hitters in the American League than Bozy Berger, and there isn't the slightest doubt in my mind about standing up."

It appears the kid has the required cockiness to stick around.

PITCHING OF THE BEST

The Indians are conceded to have probably the strongest pitching staff in the Junior League. Hildebrand, Harter, Hadlin, and Pearson are the big four of the corps, but there are a couple of rookies in camp who may change the makeup of the starting staff.

One is Dennis Gulehouse, who has been a woe with New Orleans the last two seasons. He pitched the Pelicans to two Southern Association pennants, and is due to stick in big time this season. He is a big right-hander.

The other is Al Mihart, a product of the Cleveland sandlots, who won 22 games in New Orleans last season in his second year of pro ball. An attack of appendicitis while in training camp here set him back a few steps, but the big left-hander will go north with the Indians and doubtless will start serving his stuff in the majors by the middle of May.

Thornton Lee, who spent all last season as a relief hurler with the team, has been showing a fast ball that sizzles, and may break in as a starter.

The infield of the Indians probably will shape up with Trosky, the home run clouter, at first, Berger at second, Hughes at short, and Hale at third. Hale and Trosky will supply plenty of punch at the plate.

The outfield will be the same as last season in two spots—Joe Vosmik in left and Earl Averill in centre. The right field berth is being battled over by Milt Glatzer, a finished fielder, but weak with the stick; Bruce Campbell, obtained from the Browns; and Ab Wright, brought up from Minneapolis.

Tiny Frankie Pytlak again will be No. 1 catcher, with Glenn Myatt holding second string berth. Three others in camp wearing chest protectors are after a job behind the bat. They are Bill Brenzel, from Kansas City; Bob Garbark, obtained from Toledo; and Charlie (Greek) George, from New Orleans.

Few Changes In County Cricket Sides

By Ronald T. Symond

The few minor changes which have been notified by various cricket counties are unlikely to have immediate or material effect upon their fighting strength. For the most part progress will depend upon the prowess of players with whom we are already well familiar.

To the galaxy of great batsmen headed by Woolley, Ames, and Tudd, we may soon add the name of Page, a batsman not yet 20 years old who scored a thousand runs last season, and who seems to be on the threshold of a great career.

B. H. Lyon, after so many seasons of yeoman service, is giving up the captaincy of Gloucester, as he cannot be certain of turning out regularly this season. D. C. A. Page will take his place as leader, but it is hoped that Lyon's useful batting contributions will often be available.

R. W. V. Rollins, a player who enjoys every minute of his days in the sun, has been appointed captain of Middlesex, but N. Hak and H. J. Enthoven, whose joint leadership he replaces, will not retire from active cricket. The county's amateur resources, which have always been great in number if not regular in attendance, will be augmented this year. Not only will G. O. Allen and L. A. R. Peaches be available, but also J. H. Hurren and H. G. Owen-Smith—two very useful additions to any team.

A. J. Huxley, the Scotland fast bowler, is also qualifying for Middlesex, so that when the county takes the field at full strength it will be full strength indeed.

Essex were handicapped last season inasmuch as Nichols, suffering from the effects of his trip to India, was not always fit enough to do himself full justice. Furthermore, he was often absent as a Test reserve. This season the county looks forward to better fortune and to a more successful use of its several bowlers of pace. C. E. Hoyle, who played only four times last year with an average of 58, hopes to be available more regularly.

PROFITABLE MOVE

Judging by last year's results, the abandonment of Leyton as county headquarters seems likely to prove itself a sound piece of policy. It is hard to prophesy the immediate prospects of the Nottinghamshire team. All lovers of cricket hope ardently that the great old club will soon settle itself amicably into what may be called the county of counties.

No changes of any moment are reported from the Oval. This phrase, when we remember the retirement of Hobbs, sounds like saying, "All quiet on the Western Front," when the whole world is shaking, but the great batsman's withdrawal is by this time ancient history. Surrey are an attractive team, and a happy family under E. R. T. Holmes, but with their present resources scarcely strong enough to challenge for the county championship.

JAMES AS COACH

The outlook for the other counties remains much the same. Comparative weakness cannot be turned at one stride into real strength. Northamptonshire are hoping that their two principal players, Bakewell and Clark, will show improved form after a winter's rest. K. C. James, the New Zealand wicket-keeper, is qualifying and is now acting as coach to the team.

Glamorgan have linked up with Monmouthshire, whose players are now qualified under the nearest county rule, so that the whole of South Wales is linked together for championship cricket purposes under the name of Glamorgan. J. C. Clay has made a good recovery after his operation for a leg injury.

Notts held their first practice in the middle of April. Larwood is here seen going out to the nets.

LARWOOD STARTS PRACTICE

FAST BOWLER FIT AGAIN

Larwood and Voce were among the Nottinghamshire cricketers who turned up for the opening practice at Trent Bridge.

Larwood, on being asked whether his foot now gives him any trouble, replied: "Not a twinge. I feel splendid."

The only newcomers this season are Walker, right-arm medium-pace bowler, and Bradley, a left-arm slow bowler.

The first meeting of the new committee confirmed the decision of the late committee in appointing S. D. Rhodes and G. F. Heane as joint-captains for 1935.

Mr. Douglas McCraith was appointed chairman and Dr. R. G. Hogarth vice-chairman of the committee for 1935.

MANY OLD BLUES AVAILABLE

This year's Cambridge University side should be rather stronger in bowling than usual, as four of the Old Blues who will be in residence—C. W. Parker, the captain, M. Jahangir Khan, F. King, and J. W. T. Grimshaw—are bowlers. Actually Parker did little bowling for either Cambridge or Gloucester last year, but he is much better with the ball than many people imagine.

Jahangir Khan was a disappointment last year but he was suffering from a badly strained groin for most of the season and he blundered in attempting to bowl fast. With his short run the Indian is a medium-pace bowler. King is also medium pace and Grimshaw is slow left.

Of the seniors, J. H. Cameron is a spin bowler. D. C. Rought-Rought reasonably fast. M. A. Stainforth fast. N. E. W. Baker bowls leg breaks, as does J. M. Brocklebank, who played in the public schools match of 1933.

From there and any Freshmen who develop as bowlers the Light Blues should be able to secure a reasonably good attack. The difficulty may be to secure batmen of the right type.

OPENING BAT

N. S. Hotchkiss, who was top of the Lincolnshire averages, will be well in the running for the vacancy as an opening batsman, while S. C. Griffiths, who played for Surrey against the University, is strongly fancied as a wicket-keeper.

H. P. Dinwiddie, the Rugby Blues, R. P. Nelson and D. G. Bousfield, W. Wooller, the Rugby Blue and Welsh International, and J. W. Anson, are other seniors who have impressed.

The Freshmen are well up to a good average with three of them outstanding—N. W. D. Yardley (St. Peter's, York), J. H. Pawle (Harrow), and B. R. Darewaki, of Hailbury. All three played for the Public Schools against the Army. Yardley, who has already gained a Squash Blue, and almost succeeded in getting into the Cambridge Hockey team, was the first schoolboy to score a century in the Army match. He has also played for the Yorkshire 2nd XI.

Pawle was invariably succeeded at Lord's, while Darewaki obtained four of the Army wickets, bowling a very good length.

B. H. LYON ON MODERN CRICKET

BATSMEN AFRAID OF RISKS

WAITING FOR RUNS

Mr. Beverley Lyon, the ex-Gloucestershire county captain, referring to the state of modern cricket at the Gloucestershire club's annual dinner said that people were saying cricket was a rotten game.

"It is a rotten game when first-class batsmen on a plumb wicket play themselves in throughout the day," he said. "Batsmen go to the wicket without the intention of exerting themselves, and this waiting for runs to come instead of going out for them is being ingrained into the younger batsmen by the older generation."

"If my brand and butter depended on getting runs, I would not feel inclined to take a chance. Therefore I appeal to those who are responsible for the control of county clubs to give every encouragement and every credit to the young player who goes out for runs, for that is what cricket needs if it is to live down this public cry of a 'rotten game'."

The Rev. F. H. Gillingham, who for many years played for Essex, referred to Gloucestershire as the most historic club in county cricket, and remarked on the three ten-year eras of W. G. Grace, Gilbert Jessop, and Wally Hammond. These three players had dominated the cricket world in their generation.

At the dinner Hammond was presented with a cheque of £2,000, the proceeds of his benefit.

WANCHAI STABBING

"ETERNAL TRIANGLE" ALLEGED BY THE DEFENCE

Chan King-man alias Chan Wai was cross-examined by Mr. P. H. Sin with regard to his relationship with the complainant, Yu Sze-mul, at the continued hearing of the case in which Chan Shing-shun, complainant's husband, and Ng King are charged with having procured Wong Tai and Li Chau to cause grievous bodily harm to her on March 27.

The case was heard before Mr. W. Schofield, at the Central Magistracy yesterday afternoon.

Mr. J. A. Fraser, Assistant Attorney General, is appearing for the prosecution, and Mr. P. H. Sin for the defence of the two accused. Mr. M. K. Lo is watching the case on behalf of the complainant.

Under cross-examination by Mr. Sin, Chan King-man said that he did not intend returning to America, and he did not know if he would have gone later if Yu Sze-mul had gone back. In New York he often saw Yu Sze-mul at her place. He had never gone to see Yu Sze-mul at her house in Hongkong, after the first defendant had left for America last year. While in America, he was on intimate terms with Yu Sze-mul, but since their return to Hongkong he was only on friendly terms with her.

Husband Never Objected

It was not true, said the witness, that the complainant's husband had asked him on many occasions not to pay so much attention to his concubine. Her husband had not raised any objection to his association with her, and she had never told him that her husband had objected to his seeing her. Witness stated that he was a married man and had a concubine, and he would certainly object if someone paid attention to his concubine, but the first defendant did not object to him paying attention to his concubine, because she was a prostitute in America. He had treated her as a prostitute in New York, but not in Hongkong, where he only regarded her as a friend, and there was no question of his being fond of her. He had given her money to spend in New York, but she had never given him any.

In reply to Mr. Fraser, witness said that the first defendant had not given him any money. He had, however, loaned money to the first defendant in New York, which had sometimes been repaid and sometimes not. The first defendant owed him $500 in Hongkong. His friendship with the complainant had never gone beyond the bounds of propriety.

Constantly Quarrelling

Lo Ngan, mother of the complainant, next testified that she was in the kitchen of No. 225 Jaffe Road on the afternoon of March 27, when her daughter came in and said something about her being stabbed. She helped her into a chair, and then ran down the stairs, where she picked up her handbag and overcoat and also two blades of a pair of scissors, which she later showed the Police. The first defendant was her son-in-law. Her daughter and defendant were constantly quarrelling over the sale of the house. They last quarrelled on the night of March 25. Her daughter had mentioned to her about returning to America on February 15. She thought the first defendant was in favour of it. Her daughter's object in returning to America was to start a laundry in partnership with someone else.

Witness stated to Mr. Sin, that her daughter never told her she was returning to America to become a prostitute. When her husband returned to America last year, Chan King-man only came on one occasion to see her, and then he only remained for a short while. She could not say whether her daughter and Chan were in love with each other.

Ho Kit, an amah on the first floor of No. 225 Jaffe Road, next deposed to having heard cries of "save life" and on peeping through the peep-hole in the front door had seen two men running down the stairs. On going out into the verandah, she saw them run in different directions.

A Chinese constable, Wong Kat, then said he had searched the first defendant, and found, among other things, $495.05 in money and a bank book on him.

Yu Sze-mul, recalled, said she had identified the second defendant at an identification parade held in Victoria Gaol on April 15.

The hearing was adjourned to this afternoon.

SOLDIER SUED

A claim against Private A. Shord, of the 1st Battalion, Lincolnshire Regiment, came before the Police Judge, Mr. Justice R. E. Lindsay, at the Supreme Court yesterday, when Wong Pak-nam sought the return of a motor car lent to defendant or $400, its value, and $50.24 for the repair of the vehicle.

Mr. C. E. R. Sanderson of Ruas & Co., appeared for defendant and after evidence had been given by both parties the case was adjourned to enable A. Black, of 70, Austin Road, to be called to give testimony as to his interpretation of conversations for plaintiff.

His Lordship decided that plaintiff could not claim for the repairs as they had not yet been paid. He could, however, claim for the return of the car or its value.

The car was stated to be held by Wallace Harper & Co. pending payment of the bill.

Plaintiff stated that he lent the car to defendant for a month from December 29 for which he was to receive $25. Defendant reported later that the car had broken down but that he would return it as soon as the repairs were completed. When witness went to see him in March he refused to pay the bill and tried to buy the car for $200.

Witness denied that he received $10 from Shord.

In the witness box Shord said he knew nothing about cars but a companion drove the car he hired from plaintiff and it appeared to be in good condition until it broke down. The vehicle had to be towed in from a village beyond Shatin, and he sent it to Wallace Harper's, later writing at plaintiff's request for the bill.

Witness gave plaintiff a motor cycle and $10 cash for the hire for the first month, and he and his friends were to pay for the petrol and oil. He understood that plaintiff was to pay for all repairs that were not due to his defendant's negligence. He further denied that he tried to buy the car.

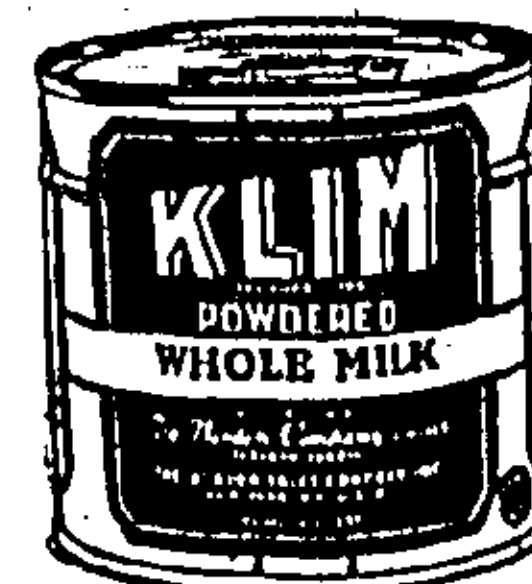

KLIM— FOR THE GROWING CHILD

Some interesting facts

Klim has long been recognized by doctors as a particularly suitable milk for the baby or the growing child.

The special process used in making Klim greatly reduces the size of the butterfat globules and makes the curds fine and soft and easy for the baby to digest.

Recently three Japanese scientists have studied the digestibility of Klim and have stated in a scientific article that "Klim showed the highest apparent digestibility."

THE MILK THAT KEEPS

In the Provision Department of Wing On Co. Klim is being specially displayed. You will also be shown how easily Klim is prepared.

THE LANTERN PROCESSION

FINE AERIAL DISPLAY

Hongkong's streets were packed by hundreds of thousands of people last night, when the magnificent Jubilee illuminations were again switched on and an additional attraction was provided by the Lantern Procession, which was a most colourful spectacle.
The formation flights by acroplanes were also a remarkably fine feature, whilst the Japanese fireworks were exceedingly good.

Four lanterns of prodigious size led the way, and, in their wake, followed a seemingly endless assortment of fish. Some were big, some small. Others were flat, some round, but whatever the name, or origin, they evoked general admiration by a highly decorative effect evolved by skilled patient craftsmanship.

Some of the specimens were not less than 30 feet long, and required two bearers. They were lighted from within by a dozen kerosene lamps, all of which added to the weight under which the bearers
perceptibly staggered. East fish carried a lantern dangling from its jaws, and, as the whole school
of more than two hundred hurried by, dipping and rising at the whim of the carriers, the effect produced was both weird and enchanting.

Illuminated Birds

The feathered tribe which had been ousted from the position of honour, now came up in a massed flight. There were peacocks and roosters. Decorative treatment had made of a type representing a live-bird something wonderful to behold, and artist's license was also taken with a number of other creatures, which presented a pretty problem for any naturalist.
There was poetic charm in pairs
of birds on cross-trees, but they were generally overshadowed by the much more prodigious creations represented in flight.

A special section was given to
the display of imitation curios,
and imitation produce of the orchard and field. Imitation fruits and meats realistically modelled in papier mache, were carried by a number of hawkers.

A number of the floats appearing in the day processions, had been pressed into service. They were supplemented by a string of more than twenty wheeled tableaux
presenting allegorical or legendary groups and all illuminated with lights.

The procession was brought up
in the rear by a 200-foot dragon—
the last of the Big Four appearing in the celebrations, and the only one of its kind to be illuminated. It was preceded by a host of attendants carrying lanterns,
while along its sinuous length floated fish and other smaller fry.

Nearly 700 exhibits figured in
the procession which, after filing
through the grounds of Government House, returned to Ken-ning Town by a circuitous route which was thronged with thousands of spectators. The procession furnished a most interesting spectacle, and at Government House it was viewed by His Excellency the Governor and Lady Peel, and
an official party of guests.

JAPANESE DISPLAY

As was confidently anticipated,
the Japanese Residents Association provided a magnificent contribution to the Colony's Jubilee programme last night in a firework display in the middle of the harbour lasting from 9.30 p.m. to 11
p.m.

The arrangements were in the hands of Mr. Kozawa, himself an expert in pyrotechnic manufacture,
and the rockets used included 50
of six inches diameter and an equal number five inches in diameter.

A member of the Association
yesterday expressed regret that owing to the big demand for fireworks in Japan recently in connection with the visit of the Manchukuo Emperor, it was impossible to get any of the "big" ball rockets
which are four and a half feet
thick and cost about 1,500 yen.

The fireworks were let off from lighters at 1A buoy and included
every variety of coloured effects,
sparklers and cascades, "smokers"
and "cannon," whilst more delicate effects indicated that the Japanese are real masters of the artistry of fireworks.

Seen against the dark hue of the
night sky, with a pale crescent moon, the fireworks appeared at their very best.

Perhaps the most beautiful of
them all was the rocket which burst high above the
harbour in a marvellous delinea-

Why Children Grind Their Teeth In Sleep.

When children grind their teeth it most usually is a sign that they are troubled with worms. Other symptoms are irregular appetite, bad breath, pain in and swelling of the abdomen, irritation in the nose, failure to make proper progress in development. Administered for a few days
Baby's Own Tablets drive out worms,
and a marked improvement in appetite
and general health speedily follows.

As a remedy for infantile indigestion, constipation, colic, vomiting, diarrhoea and simple fever these tasteless little tablets have no equal.
They allay the pains of teething almost as if by magic, bring restful comforting sleep in a natural way, are guaranteed free from opiates, narcotics or other injurious drugs. Of

Baby's Own Tablets.

tion of a petalled flower momentarily paling all lights before fading into blackness. Each time
this astral flower appeared the huge crowds gasped their admiration.

Another intriguing item was the falling globe of light which became twin globes whilst falling
and then separated again into four
and so on until the sea drowned
them all. Showers of different hued sparks appeared, in the midst
of which whirling snappers made
a circle of flame. Other fireworks spurred into falling cascades or took on the weird and graceful shapes of willow trees drifting
through the air with gleaming
smoke behind them.

Searchlights played continually across the scene, now touching up
a decorated ferry boat or launch,
adding a brighter hue to the fire
floating through the atmosphere,
or picking out a brilliant path
across the heart of the Peak.

The fire floats were also in evidence again, keeping up a curtain
of water on which multicoloured lights were trained with exquisite
and beautiful results.

His Excellency the Governor and
his party enjoyed the unique spectacle from Government House, where a perfect view of the Japanese exhibition of friendliness was obtained.

TO THE CHILDREN

Gift medals commemorating the Jubilee were distributed to Hongkong school children on Monday morning, when the Headmasters
of the various schools read an address prepared by His Excellency the Governor and circularised to all the schools in the Colony. The address was as follows:—

"This year the whole of the great British Empire will celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary
of the accession of our beloved King George V to the throne and in all parts of the Empire there will be great rejoicings that His Majesty has been spared still to reign over us.

"The British Empire is one of the greatest empires that the world has ever seen and it extends to the most distant parts of the earth. It comprises many races and many creeds and yet
it shows a wonderful unity in its great loyalty to that Empire and more especially to the Throne.

"The words 'God Save The King' which are constantly repeated throughout the Empire are no empty formula; they come from the hearts of His Majesty's subjects all of whom earnestly hope that he will long reign over us.

"The loyalty and devotion of his subjects are based not merely on long tradition, not merely on the fact that the King upholds the principles of Liberty and Justice,
but also on the firm knowledge
that he regards himself as, and is in fact, the Father of his people. He has a great knowledge of the joys and sorrows of his subjects throughout his vast Empire, and readily shows his sympathy therewith.

"In these days when the idea of service is universally stressed the King consistently sets a noble example and has indeed never spared himself in his determination to serve his people to the utmost of his power.

"In this work he has always had
the whole-hearted support of our gracious Queen Mary who,
throughout the twenty-five years
during which he has reigned has served His Majesty with true
wifely devotion and co-operated with him in untiring consideration of his subjects. They both have well earned and possess in full the love of their people.

"The future of our Empire will rest largely with its Youth of today, and I appeal to you all to maintain the best traditions of the past and to emulate the great example shown by our beloved King and Queen in upholding these traditions and in doing their utmost to work for and serve their subjects and the great Empire over which they reign.

SERIAL STORY

The DARK BLOND

by CARLETON KENDRAKE

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY.

MILICENT GRAVES, secretary to GEORGE DRINGOLD, finds her employer in his office dead. In panic she rushes away and hides at a hotel under an assumed name.

JARVIS HAPP, distinguished-looking attorney, recognizes Millicent and offers to help her. He sends her to a beauty parlour where she is transformed into a blond. Happ takes her home, introducing her as his secretary. His son, NORMAN HAPP, warns Millicent against his stepbrother, ROBERT WADE, who tells her her stepbrother is a black criminal who has some power over his stepmother.

Millicent falls asleep. A noise awakens her and she finds a note under her door reading: "The woman in black crimine is here."

CHAPTER XII

Millicent stood staring at that fatal typewritten note. She had no means of knowing who had sent it; nor could she tell whether the steps she had heard in the corridor were those of a man or a woman.

She wondered if Norman had sent her this message. He knew of her interest in the woman in the black crimine coat. But how about Jarvis Happ? Jarvis was very, very shrewd, and it was apparent that he knew more about what was going on in the house than he let on. Moreover, he knew about the other, knew of her connection with George Dringold's murder.

But how about Robert Wade? He, too, had surmised her secret. He, too, must know something of the woman in black.

Millicent shrugged her unclad shoulders and with the gesture, realised that she was chilled. She ran to the closet, found a robe and hung it about her. She went to the window and looked out.

It was, she saw, commencing to rain. Drops were beating against the window and, as she looked, she saw the rain grow in intensity until, within a few minutes, a rising wind was driving it in torrents.

She turned once more to study the note. Why had she been informed of the presence of the mysterious woman? What was she supposed to do? Was it Jarvis Happ who had left the message and who had expected she would perhaps hunt up the woman in the black crimine coat, accuse her directly of complicity in Dringold's murder?

Millicent knew only one thing. No matter who had sent the note or what was expected of her, she was determined to try to find out something about that woman in black.

Having reached this decision, Millicent

Millicent, donning her fur coat, slipped out into the hallway; and the corridors felt chill and gloomy. A night light burned at one end of the corridor, giving sufficient illumination to enable her to see objects, although not as distinctly as would have been the case had there been more illumination.

Now that she was in the corridor, she realised the immensity of the house, realised something of the nature of the task with which she was confronted. It was going to be necessary for her to find a mysterious woman in a black crimine coat who was somewhere in the house.

Where?

She remembered Mrs. Happ had proudly exhibited the suite which she occupied, and Millicent felt certain the woman she sought would be somewhere in that suite of rooms. Norman Happ had mentioned a maid, but so far Millicent had met no maid. When Norman had told her of the maid, Millicent had concluded that the woman must be absent, perhaps on leave. Had she returned?

Throwing her shoulders back, giving her chin a determined tilt, Millicent locked the door of her room and set off bravely down the corridor. She turned to the left, followed the corridor toward the place where she knew Mrs. Happ's rooms were situated.

She was still some distance from the door of the suite when she heard the sound of voices. Abruptly a door opened. Millicent flattened herself against the wall, gave a little gasp as she saw a woman clad in black crimine step into the corridor. For a moment Millicent thought the woman was coming toward her. Then, with a shrug of the shoulders, a last murmuring comment to the person on the other side of the door, the woman in black turned away from Millicent.

Millicent heard Mrs. Happ's voice, a very, very careful, "I think he's employed someone to shadow you."

The woman in black gave a low throaty laugh. A door closed. The woman in the black crimine coat walked rapidly down the corridor, away from Millicent.

Millicent hesitated a moment. Dare she run and accost the woman? Could she accuse her of being implicated in Dringold's murder? Such an accusation would, of course, alarm the household. It would also establish Millicent's own identity beyond doubt. No, there was only one thing for her to do. That was to shadow this woman and find out where she lived, then seek to learn something of her connection with the murder. Perhaps, having found out where the woman lived, she could trade information with Jarvis Happ.

Millicent waited until the woman had rounded a corner in the corridor. Then she sped swiftly and silently down the thick carpet, pausing at the corner to peer out into the other corridor.

She heard a door slam—a door, apparently, located about half way down the long corridor, but there was no one in sight.

Fighting back her disappointment, Millicent ran along the corridor, trying to locate the door that had alarmed her. She came on a back staircase which she had almost forgotten, a staircase which she remembered ran to the kitchen and then to the garage. She leaned over the banister and looked down.

She caught a glimpse of a black fur coat.

Running down the stairs, Millicent heard a door slide back, heard the purr of a motor.

She threw caution to the winds, ran rapidly, and was in time to see a car pull out from the garage, a black sedan, with the curtains in the rear tightly drawn, so that it was impossible to see anything of the person or persons who occupied it.

She could almost have touched the car as it slid out into the darkness and, for one wild moment, she thought of rushing out to try and climb to the spare tire, holding to the trunk rack, but she realised the futility of doing this and swung her eyes to the license number, determined to remember it.

The figures seared themselves into her memory—833410. She looked around her in the garage, wondering if she could find a car in which she could follow.

She saw the big limousine in which Jarvis Happ had brought her to the house. She wondered if, by any chance, keys were in the ignition. She flung open the door of the car, reached inside and groped with frantic fingers.

There were no keys in the car. Disappointed, she did back toward the door, only to freeze suddenly into instant immobility.

Someone clicked a light switch, and the garage blazed into brilliance.

NOTES FROM THE THEATRES

A unique story, cleverly turned, excellently acted, beautifully staged, that is "Behold My Wife," Sylvia Sydney's new starring picture coming as the next change at the Queen's Theatre.

Miss Sydney, who has played a variety of parts in her career, is in this time cast as an Indian maiden and she brings all the charm, all the pathos, and all the role that audiences have come to expect of her. She is more than capable of supporting her. H. B. Warner plays opposite her. He, too, is a well-known actor, and his supporting players are among the strong supporting players. Raymond is cast as a wealthy son of wealthy parents, madly in love with a girl from a social stratum. Their parents are determined to break up the affair drive the girl to suicide and Raymond, broken hearted and infuriated, slams out of his home vowing vengeance. Numbly by his tragedy, he drives his car grimly across the country to crash it, finally, in New Mexico. There he meets Tonka, the Indian girl played by Sylvia Sydney. An idea strikes him—what better way to revenge himself on his family than to marry her—to bring this "savage" back to their exclusive salon as his wife. This he does—and what follows is a sometimes amusing, sometimes tragic but always dramatic denouement. Miss Sydney's brilliant performance is a satisfying climax to her work in "Ladies of the Big House." An "Audience" Tugboat, and "Madame Butterfly" is always charming, fresh and beautiful. Raymond gives a magnificent performance as the tragedy-stricken boy and H. B. Warner, as usual, is suave and convincing. The work of the entire cast makes "Behold My Wife" one of those pictures which you can't afford to miss.

"Night Life of the Gods"

What would you do if you had the power to turn human beings into statues and vice versa? You'd probably do the same thing Alan Mowbray does in "Night Life of the Gods," Thomas Smith's great novel transferred to the screen by Lowell Sherman, and coming to the King's Theatre on Thursday. Mowbray enacts the role of a scientist, who discovers a formula for petrifying humans and animals. He begins by petrifying his nagging family into a row of statues and sets them out in the garden. In this way he evens up old scores. Then he goes to the art museum, revives the old pagan gods and goddesses—such as Apollo, Venus, Mercury, Diana, Bacchus, Hecate, Neptune, Perseus and others, and the fun begins! It may sound like a nightmare, but it all really comes to pass in "Night Life of the Gods," which Sherman has guided with a sense of terrific majesty. The comedy is profound, perhaps a bit shocking, it is the most sparkling film seen in years. "Night Life of the Gods" is an orgy in entertainment. Among the players in the cast are Florine McKinney, Henry Armetta, William (Stage) Boyd, Peggy Shannon, Douglas Fowley, Richard Carle, Gilbert Emery, Wesley Barry, Alton Carroll, Robert McWade, Marie Deering, Irene Ware, George Hassell, Geneva Mitchell and Paul Kays.

"The Pursuit of Happiness"

Francis Lederer, one of the hand-somest and most talented of our recent acting imports, finally has the opportunity to display his actual acting talent in Paramount's "The Pursuit of Happiness." The adaptation of the Broadway handling hit, which stars him and features Joan Bennett, Charlie Ruggles and Mary Boland. It opens on Friday at the Alhambra Theatre. Cast as the shy but charming Russian soldier who deserts the British army because of his love for a girl, Lederer plays with grace and lightness the role of one of the most appealing romantic comedy lovers the screen has presented in some time. With his son Jean Ben-net cast as the pretty Parisian and Irene Dunne playing "Here Am I," "Why Was I Born," "Lonely Men" and "Naughty Boy." The duets, rendered by Phil Regan and Miss Dunne, are "Tears Not So Long Ago" and "We Were So Young." Regan sings alone the linking "Molly O'Donoghue." The rollicking favorite, "Do The Polka Dot" is sung by Dorothy Dare and a special comedy duet, "I Get That Way" is sung by Hugh Herbert and Lydia Westman. Then, of course, there is the barroom classic "Down Where the Weirburger Flows" by Harry Von Tilzer which is sung by the chorus. Mervyn Leroy directed "Sweet Adeline," which is taken from the spectacular Broadway musical comedy by Jerome Kern and Oscar Hammerstein II. Bobby Connolly directed the dance specialty numbers.

"Charlie Chan in Paris"

Hailed as the most engrossing and ingenious of the famous "Charlie Chan" films, the latest of the series, "Charlie Chan in Paris" once more starring Warner Oland is now playing at the Queen's Theatre. Audiences who viewed the picture elsewhere all recorded their enthusiasm for this story of a phantom killer who terrorizes the gayest city in the world. Arriving in Paris, Charlie Chan is plunged into the dangerous shows of the most baffling mystery as he ever encountered. The French authorities are frustrated. No one but Charlie is able to find the trail. In the course of his investigation, a beautiful Apache dancer is knifed to death and another lovely girl, an heiress, is charged with still another murder. But in the end Chan proves his innocence. "Charlie Chan in Paris" was authored by Philip MacDonald, the renowned British writer who supplied the script of "Charlie Chan in London," following the death of Earl Derr Biggers, creator of the wily Chinese sleuth. Fox Film has surrounded Oland with a cast of unusual range and talent in this latest of his "Chan" stories. Mary Brian plays the banker's daughter charged with murder. Thomas Beck, Fox "discovery" recently brought to Hollywood from the Broadway stage, is seen opposite her. Other players assigned to important roles are Erik Rhodes, John Miljan, Dorothy Appleby, Henry Kolker, Perry Ivins and others.

"Sweet Adeline"

Jerome Kern, who wrote the music for "Sweet Adeline," the Warner Bros. operetta which comes to the Central and Alhambra Theatre, has been called by a New York critic, "The White Hope of American Music." Kern's career has been ascending, mainly because it has been so continuously successful. Before he was thirty, he had composed all musical comedies of Broadway calibre, including "The Girl From Utah" and "Oh, Boy." Season after season has found a Kern show on the Gay White Way. He did the scores for "Show Boat," "Sally," "Sunny" and "Why Was I Born." "Lonely Men" and "Naughty Boy." The duets, rendered by Phil Regan and Miss Dunne, are "Tears Not So Long Ago" and "We Were So Young." Regan sings alone the linking "Molly O'Donoghue." The rollicking favorite, "Do The Polka Dot" is sung by Dorothy Dare and a special comedy duet, "I Get That Way" is sung by Hugh Herbert and Lydia Westman. Then, of course, there is the barroom classic "Down Where the Weirburger Flows" by Harry Von Tilzer which is sung by the chorus. Mervyn Leroy directed "Sweet Adeline," which is taken from the spectacular Broadway musical comedy by Jerome Kern and Oscar Hammerstein II. Bobby Connolly directed the dance specialty numbers.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

Solution to Previous Contract Problem

By W. E. McKenney

There are a lot of people who tell you that a husband and wife should not play bridge together. Well, the next time you hear someone make that remark, I wish you would ask them if they have ever heard of
Mr. and Mrs. James H. Lemon of
Washington, D. C.

Most players attract attention
because they win championships,
but these two have established a reputation as the "Bridge Sweethearts" of America, due to their
table.

By the way, they also win their share of championships. At present they hold the national mixed

team-of-four championship, and down in Baltimore, recently, their team won the Maryland state team
title.

After their victory at Baltimore,
I asked Mrs. Lemon how it was that she and her husband avoided
arguments at the bridge table.
Her reply was "Jim never fails me at a critical time," and to prove it

The Play

Let me explain the hand to you in her own words.

"My opening lead was the ace of clubs. I knew that would hold the trick, as both East and West had bid clubs. But when the dummy went down, I immediately thought
I had made a bad double.

"Certainly East, to justify his bid, had to have at least five diamonds to the ace, and the king of spades, in which case the only other trick that I could take would be the king of hearts.

"But during the course of the bidding Jim had supported my heart bid. Well, he simply had to have the queen of hearts, and so led a small heart, which he won with
the queen.

Today's Contract Problem

Here's a hand with a lot of bidding. Can you get the many interesting angles of bidding that it presents? Can six hearts be made with a diamond opening and a club return?

U. S. SENATE APPROVES INFLATION

PATMAN BILL GETS MAJORITY

ROOSEVELT TO VETO

The Senate to-day passed the Patman Bill, which provides for currency inflation in order that new money may be issued to pay War veterans' bonuses.

Washington, May 7. Disregarding the warnings that any such legislation, the Senate to-day aligned itself with the House of Representatives by voting for an immediate cash payment of a bonus to War veterans. By the Vinson plan, the Treasury is to decide the means whereby the bonus payments are to be made. By the Patman Bill, the Administration must inflate the nation's currency, issuing new paper money. The Senate must choose between these two measures.

There was a third alternative, the Harrison amendment, but this has now been set aside by the Senate division to-day, which by 64 to 30 supported the Patman plan. The Harrison amendment suggested the exchange of bonus certificates for three per cent. bonds.—Reuter.

PATMAN BILL PASSED

Washington, May 7. By a vote of 55 to 33, the Senate to-day passed the Patman inflationary payment of the veterans' bonus.

The Bill now goes to the White House where a veto is considered to be almost certain. Members of the Administration, however, forecast that the Senate will make efforts to sustain the Bill.—United Press.

SILVER JUBILEE SUPPLEMENT

Few Copies Still Available

Post and Hongkong Telegraph, containing numerous illustrations and articles covering all aspects of His Majesty's reign. These may be obtained on application at ten cents per copy.

LAST NIGHT'S SPECTACLE

FINE SHOW BY R.A.F. PLANES

An inspiring spectacle was provided by the Royal Air Force in connection with the Jubilee last night when three flights of three machines, and one of six, proceeded from the harbour in a westerly direction, later joining together in forming a magnificent outline of a crown.

The night as the formation returned to the Colony shortly after dusk, the remarkable precision in maintaining the representation, and the brilliant effect as each machine suddenly burst into a golden blaze, will long be remembered by those who were fortunate enough to witness the sight. To add to the beauty of the effect, green and red lights dropped from the blazing crown.

After travelling some distance, the formation broke up, and flying in twos and threes was carried out, the display culminating in stunting by individual planes, evoking many expressions of admiration from the thousands lining the Praya and stationed at points of vantage. It was indeed a splendid and thrilling spectacle.

ISLAND FOR JAPAN.

Tokyo, May 7. Regarding the report that Soviet Russia is being persuaded to surrender Northern Sakhalin Island to Japan, a spokesman of the Japanese Foreign Office declared to-day that the Japanese Government had not been offered any practicable terms by the Soviet Government in this connection. Japan was quite willing to buy over it if fair terms were available from the Soviet Government, however.—Central News.

In 1905 he was promoted to Captain and in 1917 to Rear-Admiral, and in that capacity he planned and executed the brilliant naval attack upon Zeebrugge and Ostend, for the success of which he received a knighthood.

In April, 1919, he was appointed Rear-Admiral commanding the Battle Cruiser Squadron, Atlantic Fleet, in which capacity he served until 1921. In August of that year he received a baronetcy and a grant of £10,000.

From October, 1921 to 1925, he was Deputy Chief of Naval Staff, and in 1926 he was promoted Admiral. In 1930 he was made Admiral of the Fleet. In the following year he struck his flag.—Reuter Special.

CAN BERLIN AID PEACE PLANS?

BRITAIN AWAITING CONTRIBUTION

WOULD WELCOME ANY HELPFUL MOVE

London, May 7.
Sympathy for Germany's attitude respecting armament and approval of Mr. Ramsay MacDonald's recent declaration of policy, were shown by several speakers in the debate on foreign affairs in the House of Lords to-day.

Lord Stanhope recalled the declaration of the Foreign Secretary, Sir John Simon, last week, that Germany could re-establish the feeling of security in Europe by acts, but not by words.

He said the Government fervently hoped that Chancellor Hitler's promised statement on foreign policy next week would be a prelude to such constructive action on Germany's part as is expected in view of Hitler's frequently proclaimed desire for peace.

In regard to the suggestion that the Government should re-constitute the Disarmament Conference, Lord Stanhope said it seemed impossible at present for Britain to submit figures for land forces which Europe would be likely to agree to.

"If Hitler could give us figures, well and good. Let Germany submit definite proposals and let us see if we could get plans for an air pact on the lines of our proposals."

The British Government had drafted an Air Pact model for its own information and he had no doubt France and Italy had done the same, he said.

"Let us communicate them to each other and let us get one from Germany and see if Germany can submit practical proposals that will enable us to resume negotiations."

SEEKING ALTERNATIVE

Germany did not like the idea of an Eastern Locarno pact, Lord Stanhope said, and some of the other international arrangements were unwelcome to Berlin. Let Germany, in that case, propose other arrangements and see if the nations cannot get agreement upon them, he suggested.

It mattered little from whom the proposals came, providing they were concrete and practical and in good faith.

With regard to Germany's plans for naval construction, Lord Stanhope said the British Government was proposing to negotiate with Berlin, but pointed out that it would have to submit any proposals by any nation to the co-signatories of the London and Washington Treaties.—Reuter.

AMERICAN INFLATION PROSPECT

WOULD STIMULATE BUSINESS

MARKET NOT DISTURBED

New York, May 7.

Wall Street observers say that they foresee temporary inflation with its attendant stimulus in some business lines should the Patman Bonus Bill pass over the veto.

It is not considered that the amount expended in this form of Bonus payments would be serious but it is feared that it would act as a forerunner of real inflation.

Also it is pointed out that any immediate stimulation would apparently strengthen the consumer industries. However, the opinion is expressed that the depression has never seriously affected these industries and the only difficulty now is the slowness in the pick-up of the heavy industries which would be further retarded under the Bonus Bill.

Stock market observers are not expecting a big rise in stocks or a decline in bonds as a result of the passage of the Patman Bill. Instead they say they expect a period of watchful waiting with narrow market and light trading until definite indications are manifest of the strength of the Bonus group.

Conservatives have expressed the belief that Congress approved of the Patman Bill merely in the interests of home consumption and that later the veto will be upheld.—United Press.

SMUGGLING SILVER

BANKS TAKING PRECAUTIONS

Tientsin, May 8.

Local financial circles are seriously concerned over the continuous outflow of silver, mostly through smuggling, from North China, although the system of supervising the cashing of banknotes at the native banks has produced the effect of checking on suspected or identified silver smugglers.

The Chinese banks at Tientsin and Peking will shortly hold a joint meeting to discuss further measures to co-operate with the Government to prevent silver smuggling.—Central News.

Reds Still Menacing

MOBILITY GREAT ADVANTAGE

LONDON VIEW OF SITUATION

London, May 7.

Red armies in China may not be really formidable when opposed to good troops, declares the Times, commenting on the situation in South-west China, but they are a very mobile force.

Their lack of artillery and motor transport is an advantage instead of a hindrance in the wooded and mountainous districts and they maintain themselves by well organized pillage. Their habitual slaughter of landlords, tax collectors and judges probably arouses less indignation than their requisitions among the peasants of mis-governed districts into which they recently penetrated, and the Chinese villagers can usually be frightened into submission by a few executions.

Happily for China, the Reds have never been able to secure the support of more than a small minority of country folk. Their very successes have taught their opponents how to fight them. But whether they attempt to conquer Szechuen or embroil China and Tibet by escaping to Sikong, they can do much mischief yet.—Reuter.

This afternoon, the Queen went for a drive in the West End and was heartily cheered by the crowd which had continued throughout the day in the neighbourhood of the Palace. Their Majesties still have an arduous programme of engagements.—(Continued on Page 8.)

THOUSANDS STARVE IN ILLINOIS

FUND FOR RELIEF CUT OFF

LEGISLATURE HELPLESS

Springfield, Ill., May 8.

A serious situation has developed in Illinois, and the nation is apprehensive—since it has discovered that 200,000 men, women and children are facing starvation in different parts of the state, following the closing down of relief depots.

A body of 500 demonstrators marched on the state capital last night to demand that the relief depots be reopened at once.

Trouble began when the state authorities refused to supply their share of the contribution to relief funds and the Federal Relief Administrator, Mr. Hopkins, ordered the depots closed.

The demonstrators' committee has presented the state Legislature with a demand for the appropriation of the necessary funds to put the relief system into operation.

Governor Horner has informed the committee that the only hope of getting the funds was to force the passage of two bills by the Legislature whereby the sales tax could be increased from two to three cents, producing $3,000,000 monthly.

The Republican minority announces that it will oppose increase in the sales tax and will refuse to give the bills the necessary two-thirds majority.

Meanwhile, 200,000 Illinois people are growing hungrier.—Reuter.

WAR DANGER IN ABYSSINIA

ITALY MAKES NEW CHARGES

MUST ACT TO REMEDY SITUATION

Rome, May 7.

More than ever, there is danger of a clash between Italy and Ethiopia. In face of the situation in Abyssinia, the Fascist Government can no longer delay action, warned the Under-Secretary for the Colonies, addressing the Chamber of Deputies to-day.

It is necessary, he said, to face the question and solve it once and for all. The problem of Italy's relationship with Abyssinia was pressing, he insisted.

A crowded House heard Signor Lessona, the Under-Secretary, in an atmosphere of tense excitement which has prevailed since the announcement of new mobilisation orders.

Signor Lessona charged Abyssinia with violation of the Italo-Abyssinian Treaty of friendship. He said that satisfaction had been afforded in only one of the three bloody frontier incidents of recent date.

But of greater importance than these incidents, shocking as they were, was the proof of Abyssinian ill-feeling against Italy.

He went on to assert that as against Abyssinia's failure to honour the Treaty, Italy had met one of the Ethiopian Emperor's most fervid wishes in granting a free zone in the harbour of Assab, and also trade facilities in the East African colonies. The truth was that Abyssinia was holding very serious and threatening intentions towards Italy.

URGES U.S. TO JOIN LEAGUE

BUT NOT TO FIGHT FOR PEACE

RESOLUTION FOR SENATE

Washington, May 7.

Senator Pope has introduced a resolution, with strong support, suggesting that America should ask to be admitted as a member of the League of Nations, but only on condition that America should not be obliged to use its armed forces in the prevention of war.

The resolution specifies, too, that only America shall determine her action in the event of the threat of war arising.

"Only in this way can we enter into permanent and enduring peace,"

Senator Johnson, commenting on the new move, said: "We can keep out of war by minding our own business.—United Press."

RESERVATIONS

Washington, May 7.

The question of America's entry into the League of Nations has been revived by a resolution introduced into the Senate to-day by Senator Pope. The resolution authorises the United States to accept membership on certain conditions, chief of which is that the provisions of the Covenant regarding co-operation to prevent war should not compel the United States to use armed force.

The second reservation which the resolution insists upon is that America should be left to make up her own mind about what action to take in the event of violation of the peace treaties.

Senator Pope, in his introductory address, said that mere negative action would never suffice to prevent war. "The world," he said, "won't bring peace and lay it in our laps. We must conquer it by constructive effort. Prevention of war is far more important than trying to stay out of it once it has started."

The Bill may not be debated openly in the present Congress, as Senator Pope has not requested immediate action, but its controversial nature will ensure its discussion throughout the country.—Reuter.

CHICAGO WHEAT

Chicago, May 7.

Liquidation continued despite the lowest visible supply since August 1927. The sporadic covering was insufficient to prevent the declines which were attributed to improved South-west crop reports and further reports of rain in many parts of the wheat belt.—United Press.

Rome, May 7.

It is officially announced that the reservists of the 1913 Class and also the second native division in Eritrea, are mobilising. Together they will make possible the placing of 284,000 men on a war footing.

This action is being taken because of the "heavy supplies of war materials recently sent to Addis Ababa by European factories" and because the Ethiopian mobilisation measures make it necessary to take steps to guarantee the security of our East African colonies.—United Press.

It was undeniably a fact, said Signor Lessona, that the Ethiopian Empire did not represent an honourable or unitarian state, and hence the necessity arose to clear up the situation.—Reuter.

MUST HAVE SECURITY

Rome, May 7.

Italy is entitled to see that attacks, such as those which occurred at Ualual and Afab from the Abyssinian side of the frontier, shall not be repeated. This was the statement of the Under-Secretary for the Colonies, Signor Lessona, speaking to the Chamber to-night.

Italy wanted respect for the treaty of 1928, so that her colonies in Africa might look into a tranquil future, he went on.

He added that Abyssinia, by force of arms allowed then by the complacency of European powers, had destroyed three native kingdoms in the past forty years and had formed a large colony where systematic slave trading was carried on.

The Chamber was incensed at reports from Italian Somaliland that an Italian soldier, while drawing water from the river, was murdered by an Abyssinian and robbed of his arms and valuables. At present there are about 150,000 Italian troops on the frontiers of Italian Somaliland and Eritrea, equipped for a campaign in the desert. For weeks past the Abyssinian tribesmen have been mobilising.—Reuter.

PACIFISM IS NOT ENOUGH

MAKING LEAGUE EFFECTIVE

CONSTRUCTIVE THINKING

BY LORD LOTHIAN

The figures of the National Peace Ballot prove conclusively that British public opinion is vehemently against war and that the great bulk of the electorate stand for the League of Nations as the road towards peace. But most people recognise, uneasily, that somehow or other this does not suffice.

A free world ballot would disclose everywhere the same kind of majorities, against war. The great majority of the nations support the collective system as established in the League. Even the United States supports that form of it in the Pacific which is represented by the Washington Treaties. Yet the competition in armaments has set in.

It is quite clear that shouting against war is not enough. If peace is to be achieved we must do more of that painful thing called thinking.

WHAT IS MEANT

First of all, what do we mean when we say we want "peace"? If we think for a moment we shall see that what every professor of political science will tell us is true, that the only way of ending war is to bring in to being the World State.

The State exists because it is the instrument—the only instrument—which ends war in the area it controls because it is able to bring about political and economic changes by pacific and not warlike means. So long as 600 States claim the full rights of sovereignty it will be impossible to end war, however much we may wish, or shout or pray for peace. Logic and all recorded history alike prove that, as Mr. H. G. Wells has been persistently saying for 15 years, the price of peace is not non-violence, but the political unity of mankind.

In the meanwhile, however, the peace movement has to concern itself with those more modest steps towards that ultimate goal which are within the range of practical politics. The immediate problem is to see if the League of Nations can be made an effective instrument for the prevention of war.

TWO LESSONS

There are two lessons to be learned from the painful but salutary League experience of the last 15 years. The first is that the League can only succeed if it can make Article XIX—the revision of treaties article—a reality. The view that modern wars are the product of deliberate diabolism on the part of politicians or armament makers will not bear analysis, though the follies of the one and the salesmanship of the other are contributory factors.

The major cause of war is the difficulty of making adjustments in the political and economic structure of the world before economic necessity or a sense of intolerable injustice produces an explosion. Just as grievances unredressed produce revolution within the State, so grievances unredressed produce war between States. The League can never succeed in preventing war if it is no more than a League to maintain the "status quo." If it is only that it will be an instrument for turning every local war into a world war.

SANCTIONS

The second lesson is not less clear. Article XVI, which binds

CHOCOLATE FRUIT CUPS

HERE is a new and decorative dainty! You require a tin of fruit salad, a three carton of thick cream, three bananas, two oz. plain chocolate, one oz. almonds, and a few glace cherries.

Drain off the juice from the fruit, cut up all the fruit into small pieces, and put it into sundae glasses—say three or four for this quantity; as many as it will "go into," anyhow.

Slice one of the bananas, and divide equally with the fruit. Blanch the almonds, and split them in halves, and grate up the chocolate. The two remaining bananas must be peeled and mashed to a pulp, and when you have whisked the cream until it is stiff, add it to this pulp. This mixture is heaped on top of the fruit, and covered in its turn with a thick layer of the grated chocolate, the finishing touch being the decorating of the top with almonds and cherries.

members of the League to combine in taking economic and possibly military sanctions against a nation which resorts to war without full use of Covenant procedure, will only work if there is irresistible force on the side of the League Powers and willingness to use it. It is true enough that in an anarchic world competitive armaments produce neither peace nor security. But if those who are for collective security through the League are disarmed, collectively weaker or less united or resolute than those who are dissatisfied and prepared to risk war, the use of Article XVI will also only turn local wars into world wars.

Consider the present world crisis. Fundamentally the unrest is caused by the need of finding justly and by pacific means the legitimate place and adequate economic opportunity on the other hand for Germany and on the other for Japan in the post-war world. If these things can be done, and aggression prevented there will be certain peace in the world for a generation.

National Socialist Germany, indeed, is largely the product of the failure of the League to give Germany "equality" in the full sense of that ambiguous word by

Shanghai. Making his annual trip to the great medical centres of the world in search of new developments in surgery, Mr. Vinzenz Mueller, president of V. Mueller & Co., one of the largest manufacturers of surgical instruments in the world, arrived here recently by plane from Peiping. Mr. Mueller's factory is in Chicago, although he makes his headquarters in Tuttlingen, Germany.

Mr. Mueller praised the hospitals of Peiping. "They are modern, up-to-the-minute," he said, "and the students they turn out there are very capable, as competent as any doctors in the world."

In India, Mr. Mueller will study the methods used in treating eye cataracts. Dust storms and the alkali nature of the country result in the Indian people having more cataracts than any other group in the world, he said.

Trips to the medical centres of Europe will conclude this year's study.—United Press.

the use of Article XIX, during the last fifteen years.

France and her Allies have been unwilling to disarm because they have been afraid of what an equal Germany would demand. And now Herr Hitler has made the situation still more difficult, after he had recovered arms equality by unilateral action, by raising doubts whether he will meet Britain's principal desire that Germany will come back to the League and try to settle her remaining grievances by its pacific procedure as a member of the organised European community.

Militarist Japan, on the other hand, is largely the product of the League being willing to apply Article XIX, but unable to apply Article XVI.

FACING CRISIS

Thus the peace movement is faced by a crisis. The old pacifism, like the old patriotism, is no longer enough. It is a sobering reflection to think that world war may eventually come if Europe cannot put Article XIX into effect, and that to make Article XVI effective where there is risk of aggression means not disarmament, but at least adequate armament, for nothing is more dangerous than threats which cannot be made good.

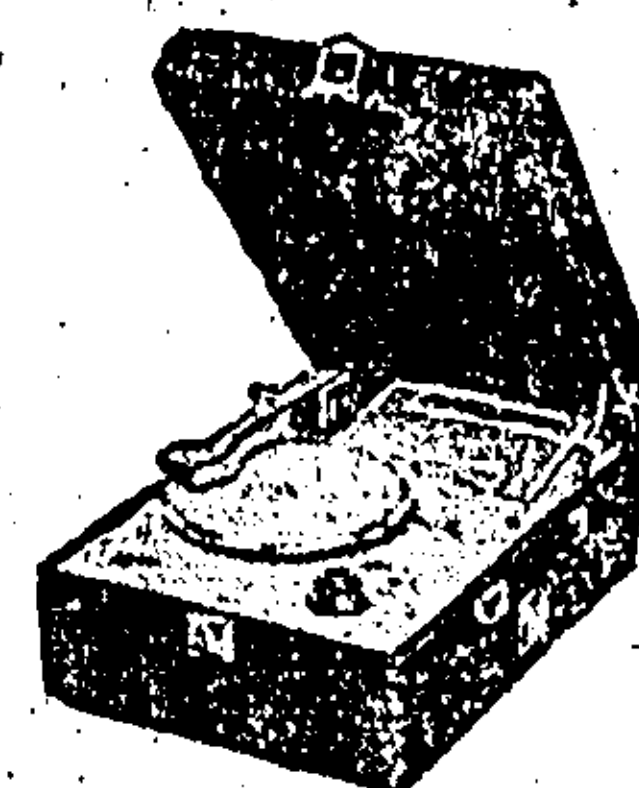

And what of that dubious compromise, the regional pact? We will not sign the Eastern Pact because the British people will certainly not undertake to march to war to defend the Western frontiers of Russia or the Eastern frontiers of Germany, or either frontier of Poland. Yet if we refuse and France signs some equivalent without us, how are we to prevent the Locarno Treaties from involving us automatically in a European war whenever an accident, a fool or a knave fires the train in the East of Europe?

Then there is psychology to be considered. Hitler is convinced that Bolshevik Russia is stimulating capitalist Europe to war so as to build revolutionary Communism on its ruins, and therefore refuses to join a collective system with Russia. France is convinced that Germany is plotting the military hegemony of Europe and is moving back to the encircling Franco-Russian alliance. Russia is convinced that Germany means to get back the Polish Corridor at the expense of the Ukraine, and the Dominions are urging us to keep out of the horrid mess if the Empire is to endure.

It is impossible to attempt an answer until after Stresa. But one thing is certain. It is absolutely vital that Great Britain should continue that calm mediating mission she has so well begun.

THE DECCA PORTROLA

A complete all electric radio-gram in the compass of an ordinary acoustic portable. Something that—until the introduction of this truly remarkable little instrument was considered out of the question. But the seemingly impossible has been accomplished and DECCA—the inventors of the first acoustic portable—now introduce the world's first portable radio-gram.

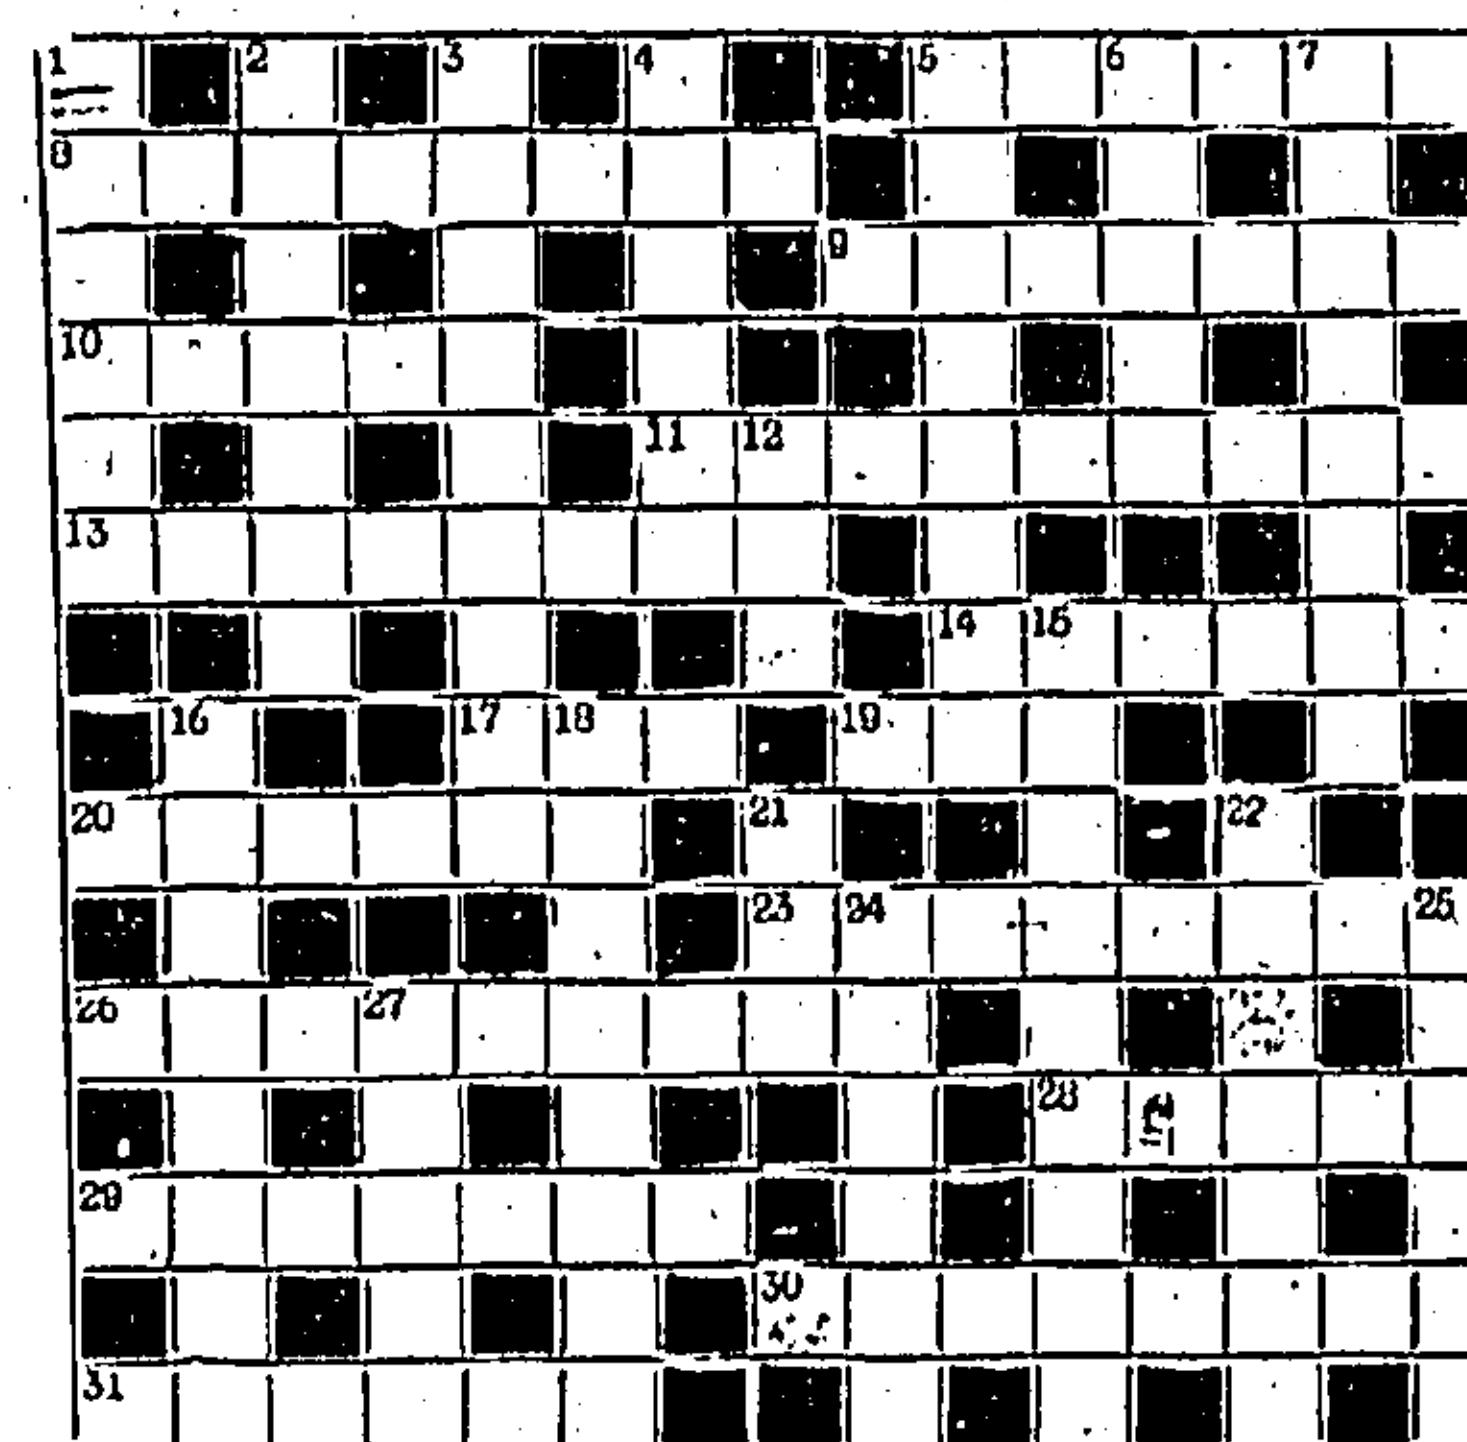

A marvel of ingenuity, the 'Portrola' is distinguished not merely for its portability and novelty, but it really is a highly efficient radio-gram, giving superlative results on radio or records and challenging favourable comparison with most multi-valve receivers.

MAXIM LITVINOFF AT HOME

INTIMATE GLIMPSE OF RUSSIAN DIPLOMAT

BY CATHERINE CARSWELL.

I HAVE before me as I write a recent snapshot of Maxim Litvinov and Salvador de Madariaga engaged in animated conversation at Geneva. The Basque, with his characteristic smile, gay and disarming, is emphasising his remarks by a prodding forefinger on the Russian's chest.

The Russian, who hates nothing more than to be touched by anybody, is smiling too, but with a reserved amusement which is equally characteristic. I smile also as I recall how these two men, both married to old and intimate friends of mine, and both living at the time in Hampstead, first met one another in my house.

It was about 18 years ago, and therefore long before any of us could possibly have foreseen the very different circumstances in which they would later approach each other. Thinking that, as Continentals and keen students of politics, they might be interested to meet, I asked their wives to bring them along for an evening's talk.

Last November I stayed with the Litvinovs at their country retreat that is half an hour's run from Moscow by car. It is called the "datcha" (or cottage) but, like so many English "cottages," is a fairly commodious villa, to which

M. Laval and Mr. Eden may possibly be invited this week, as one of its purposes is to enable the Foreign Minister to do his less formal and more intimate official entertaining. Entertainment on the grand scale takes place, of course, in the Kremlin, and official talks are held in "the Big House" or Narkomindel.

In the "datcha" with its severe furniture and high, pale-washed walls (Litvinov always disliked the low Hampstead ceilings) the People's Commissar sits working in a huge club chair before a huge table, while at his elbow a huge amplifier blares out dance tunes, or whatever may be the wireless item of the moment, into his unlistening ear, to the affliction of his family whose notions of what aids concentration are different.

Whatever may be the anxieties of a political career in Russia, there is one respect in which the lot of a Soviet Minister is enviable. So far as the State can see to it he is removed as far from private worries as from private property.

He need not think about money. His so-called salary—a matter of £300 or so a year—is no more than an allowance for ready cash. Anything in reason for his own use or the hospitality devolving upon him he can have on a scale of modest comfort, and of a kind in accordance with his own tastes.

And who would not rather "have the use of" a motor-car than own one? I have little doubt that this admirable arrangement has been an important factor in the admitted success of Soviet foreign policy during recent years. The Commissar for Foreign Affairs is able to give undivided attention to his job.

The Litvinovs' town home is typical of the best that Russia has to offer to its leading citizens. It is merely part of a converted house, consisting of a long, narrow passage, with light but not large rooms off it all along one side—one room, that is, for each of the family in which to work and sleep, and one little room where they all meet for meals or, at other times, retire singly to play the piano.

In addition there are a tiny kitchen and a bathroom. With the exception of the dining-room, each apartment has a desk and a bed. (Wherever you visit in Moscow there is always somebody sound asleep on one of those day-and-night couches.) "Papa's" room is so near the front door that people entering are apt to pass it without noticing it, which is precisely what is intended.

SHOWS TASTE

In Mrs. Litvinov's room there are Bokhara hangings (the cheaper the cheerfuller) and one or two well-chosen pictures on the light blue walls. She is out most of the day teaching basic English to young soldiers and peasants. When she is at home, she is preparing for her classes or getting herself ready for a lesson in harmony, at which she works with enthusiasm, as does her son, Misha, in the intervals of learning about the construction of aeroplanes and the behaviour of gliders.

His sister, Tanla, who is a couple of years younger—now 16, is studying philology, and to this end she is reading Latin and Greek, which, after being for some years regarded as unnecessary subjects, have recently been readmitted into the Soviet curriculum.

I imagine that, of all European statesmen, Litvinov is the most realistic. He detests functions and avoids personal publicity, being chiefly concerned to get things done and, for this purpose, to match his hard and clear wits against those of other men. Of a man his highest commendation is to say that he is "clear-minded"; of a woman that she is "practical."

BEAUTIFUL COUNTRY

At the "datcha" when he was not at work he went walking with his wife, his daughter and myself in one of the loveliest country-rides I know. It resembles a Lilliputian Switzerland, having steep little hills, swift little rivers, and mingled wood of dark trees against which the groups of white Russian birches show up, as Mr. Bullitt, the American Ambassador, once said, "like a herd of giraffes." I remembered, walking so once by fieldpaths in Bucks, when Litvinov taught us a number of edible fungi not usually recognised as such in this country, and demonstrated his muscular skill by throwing my unsuspecting husband into the air with a deft twist of the leg in a sort of Russian ju-jitsu.

In this Russian walk we passed a cabbage-shredding machine in one of the collective farms, which was surrounded by shavings of the vegetable that is the Russian's staple food. I felt I knew my host well enough to pick up and nibble a scrap of it. He smiled and his small eyes twinkled. "Take care," he said, "you know you can be shot for that in Russia. Don't you read your own newspapers?"

Our walk over, we returned home to play at a corner of the huge work table, which is also the dining-room table, a childish card game in which the convention is that "Papa always cheats" and half the fun is to catch him at it. This is by no means easy.

AMOY SMUGGLING

OUTFLOW OF SILVER CAUSES DEPRECIATION

Amoy, May 7.

It is feared in local financial circles that a crisis may be created if effective measures are still unavailable to check increasing silver smuggling activities. In consequence of the heavy outflow of silver through smuggling from Amoy, local bank notes have been depreciated to about 90 per cent. of their face value. Big dollars, new or old, also command a higher rate of premium.

Four persons suspected of having connections with the a.s. Lukiang smuggling case have been arrested there by the police authorities.

It will be recalled that the a.s. Lukiang carrying smuggled silver to the amount of $200,000 was pirated last week on her way to Amoy from Putien, in the interior of Fukien. —Central-News-Agency.

Mr. J. A. Fraser, Assistant Attorney General, is appearing for the prosecution, while Mr. T. P. K. Kemble is appearing on behalf of the fugitive.

Mr. Fraser stated that from what he had seen of the evidence, the hearing of the case would occupy about three or four days. Sessions, week would take place on the 20th and 24th; therefore, it would not be possible to fix a date for the hearing until after the Sessions.

366,000 BELOW BORDER

MOSTLY IN LONDON

The number of Scots living in London at midnight on April 26-27 1931, was over 360,000.

This is revealed in the latest census of England and Wales, which has been finished.

It has taken four years to complete this analysis and to tabulate the 39,952,377 men, women, and children, of whom details were given on the Census papers. The long series of detailed statistics already published is now completed by the issue of a volume bearing the prosaic title "General Tables."

Four years ago, there were 366,480 persons living in England and Wales who were born in Scotland, while those with Irish Free State nationality numbered 303,676. In Greater London were 101,872 Scots or their children, while the figure for the Irish Free State was 86,741. From the Dominions and Colonies 225,684 persons were either residing in England or there as visitors.

The figures of those born in foreign countries reveal striking contrasts. Among European countries, Poland was returned as the birthplace of 43,912 persons—by far the highest total—while Russia was given by 35,133 persons. On the other hand, only 594 persons gave Yugoslavia as their birthplace. Those born in the United States numbered 37,429.

NEARLY 4,000 BORN AT SEA

"Born at sea" was given as the birthplace of 3,972 persons, while 139,248 did not state where they were born.

Officers and men serving in the Navy, Army, and Air Force who were on duty outside Great Britain on Census night numbered 131,990. There were 335 women, mainly on hospital nursing staffs abroad, while civilians enumerated in Navy, Army, and Air Force establishments in various countries numbered 228.

There were 156 persons in England and Wales who were 100 years of age and over. Women far outnumbered the men centenarians—129 against 27 males. Between the ages of 95 and 99 there were 2,278 persons (565 men and 1,713 women).

In institutions for insane or mentally deficient, cripples, blind, and other permanently disabled, there were 193,078 persons, and in workhouses and other Poor Law institutions 159,114 persons. Prisoners, police stations, and other places of detention had a "population" of 27,562.

In civilian ships, boats, and barges were 50,051 persons, while the number of "all others (including vagrants)" was returned as 72,361.

TAILOR SENT TO GAOL

HELD CUSTOMERS' SUITINGS

Fourteen weeks' hard labour was imposed by Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning on Kwah Yau, 26, tailor, who pleaded guilty to seven charges of theft by bailor of cloth and suitings, the property of six Indian gunners of the 1st Mountain Battery, Whitfield Barracks.

The defendant stated that the Indians would not pay him money, so he did not but over the suitings and cloth, and pawned them. The Magistrate: You cannot recompense yourself by pawning the cloth.

Det-Sergt. Davis, prosecuting, said defendant was employed as a tailor and occupied a machine with space in another tailor's shop. The defendant was known to the Indian troops as a tailor, and obtained regular work from them. The total value of property involved in the case was $33.69.

ments ahead of them, extending over a fortnight or three weeks. To-morrow, the King will drive to St. James' Palace, where he will receive members of the Diplomatic Corps at a levee and reception. The Prime Minister and the Brazilian Ambassador, as Doyen of the Corps, will make addresses to the King, who will reply returning thanks to all those countries who have congratulated him upon the attainment of his Silver Jubilee. Telegrams from all parts of the Empire and from communities abroad continue to be received at the Palace in their hundreds.

POLICE THANKED

London's celebrations, which continued until early morning, when many streets both in the East and West End were filled with singing and dancing crowds, were resumed this evening, when more sightseers came to inspect the decorations and charming floodlighting effects in the parks and on main buildings.

The complete success with which the Jubilee crowds were good tempered and unostentatiously handled by the police has aroused general admiration, especially of visitors to London. To-day the King sent a message of appreciation and thanks for the excellent police arrangements made for his visit to St. Paul's, and for the safety and comfort of the public, to the Commissioner of Police for the City of London.

About £10,000 will be available for charity as the result of the sale of grandstand seats for the public procession. Of 25,000 seats available, 5,000 had been placed at the disposal of the British Charities Association, and any surplus after meeting the cost of erecting the other 20,000 will also go to charity.

There will be further pageantry this week, when, on Thursday, the King proceeds to Westminster Hall to receive a loyal address from both Houses of Parliament.—British Wireless.

SHAI MARKET REPORT

Shanghai, May 8. Rates on the Foreign Exchange Market at 9.20 were U. S. dollars 40 7/8, Sterling 1/8 1/4, and Gold Bars $797.00.

The undertone was a shade easier but trading was extremely dull, due mostly to a prolonged holiday mood.

The market continued to be extremely dull at 10.15 a.m. The passage of the Patman-Banas Bill is apparently unopposed.

Gold Bars were $790.90. A reliable estimate of the speculative position on the foreign exchange market here is approximately $5,000,000 oversold. This amount is much less than was generally believed.

On the basis of the acute shortage of gold bars here, some reliable observers are forecasting that a rise in gold bar quotations will accompany the approaching change-over with a resultant business in the exchange market.

It is stated that at present there are only 10,000 gold bars in Shanghai of which it is reported 7,000 are held by operators who have created against short sales in exchange.

Because of this the operators on the short side of gold bars are liable to be squeezed very tightly. At present the change over is quoted at from five to six dollars.—United Press.

FIFTH VICTIM OF CRASH

WOMAN DIES AFTER OPERATION

(Special to "Telegraph")

Macon, Mo., May 7. A fifth victim of the plane crash in which Senator Cutting was killed yesterday, died to-day. Mrs. William Kaplan died following emergency operations. Another woman was killed in the crash, but has not yet been identified.—United Press.

BRITISH FINANCES

London, May 7. Treasury returns for the week ending May 4, show that total ordinary revenue amounted to £58,613,706, compared with £59,932,597 for the corresponding week last year, while total ordinary expenditure amounted to £58,773,295, compared with £58,205,713.—British Wireless.

EMPIRE BUILDER

CHINA REMEMBERS ANCIENT HERO

Nanking. High officials of China this year formally remembered the 2144th death anniversary of Shih Huang Ti, ancient ruler who constructed the Great Wall, unified northern China under an empire, and from whose dynastic name of Ch'in, was derived the modern English word China.

Chinese government leaders, some of whom participated in the overthrow of the last emperor in 1911, placed wreaths on the tomb of an emperor of two millenniums ago, because that emperor faced and overcame problems similar to those with which present-day China's Government is confronted.

The ancient emperor came to the throne at a time when feudal and feudalistic conceptions were uppermost in the Chinese mind. Slowly, Huang Ti succeeded in decreasing the power of the feudal lords of the period and divided northern China into provinces, whose chief officers were responsible to the imperial throne. Such is the system which modern China's national government is attempting to enforce, attempting to subordinate sectional or feudalistic interests to those of national scope.

Huang Ti ordered the destruction of all classical literature, with the exception of works on astrology, divination, medicine and husbandry. Some 400 classical scholars who attempted to defy the imperial authority were buried alive. For this action Huang Ti was condemned by centuries of Confucian and classical scholars. But Huang Ti's purpose was to do away with the influence of ultraconservative scholarship which continually stressed the glories of the past and resisted progress. Modern China is not burning books wholesale, but it is attempting to root out ultraconservative beliefs and traditions which might hinder the government in its efforts toward making China a more prosperous, more healthy, and more orderly nation.

The incursions of warlike tribesmen from the north led Huang Ti to unite, strengthen and lengthen older barriers of the northern borders to form what is now known the world over as The Great Wall of China. To give added strength to the national defences, Huang Ti ordered the building of highways and digging of canals. Modern China is also building highways and strengthening its defences against foreign aggression.—United Press.

TO GET RID OF STOMACH TROUBLES

An English Doctor writes:—

"I And that 'Disurated' Magnesia taken after most of my meals is the only thing that keeps me free from pain and discomfort, and I take it regularly. I often prescribe it for my patients, and have had very good results."
(Signed) Dr. H. G. — M.A., M.R.C.S., L.R.C.P.

THE English doctor is the most conservative medical man in the world, and when he not only recommends but personally uses a remedy there can be no more convincing proof of its efficacy. "Disurated" Magnesia is but one of many who constantly advise the use of "Disurated" Magnesia in all cases of indigestion. Most stomach trouble is caused by acidity, and the reason why "Disurated" Magnesia gives quick relief is that it instantly neutralises excess acid and soothes, heals and strengthens the inflamed stomach lining. Nothing could be simpler, safer or surer. If you suffer with indigestion or stomach disorder of any kind put your faith in European science and make an end of your troubles by taking "Disurated" Magnesia after eating or whenever pain is felt.

It is a source of constant wonderment to visitors to London that, in a monarchist realm, political firebrands should be permitted regularly to orate in Hyde Park and on the plinth of the Nelson Monument, preaching Republicanism, Communism and other extreme views. But the British reaction to this kind of thing is based on an amused tolerance which objects to nothing short of actual sedition. Hyde Park has well been described as Britain's safety-valve; here the Street orator may relieve his feelings to his heart's content, and he doubtless leaves the scene feeling that he has accomplished something. Few begrudge him such satisfaction as he can extract from his performance. Happily, political thought and expression are still free in England, which, in recent years, has had Governments of distinctly varying hues, including two Socialist regimes. But throughout all the changes, the Throne has stood aloof from the political hurly-burly, with the King ever the strictly constitutional monarch, performing his services to the nation with a single eye to its progress and well-being. There are Republicans in England, of course, but they are in a decided minority, with practically no following. H.G. Wells remains the unabashed Republican—"one of the most pampered and irresponsible 'advanced thinkers'," he describes himself in his autobiography—"an uninvited adventurer who has felt himself free to criticise established things... who has been tolerated almost incredibly during this subversive career." Here, as one writer remarks, we have the key to wisdom: Britain's constitutional monarchy is based upon a tolerant non-interference. Anyone may talk or write as the spirit moves, so long as he does not preach sedition. If he can convince the majority, his is the right to govern; and that means the readiness of the Throne to act by and with the advice of the Ministers of any party which can convert the country to its political views. It is in this fact that we find one of the bulwarks of the monarchy. With His Majesty unconcerned in political doctrines is coupled the other fact that every non-political movement for the welfare of the masses has Royal support. Political platforms may become unpopular, but all the movements with which the King and

NOTES OF THE DAY

"A pendant to our remarks on the agitation to subject Japanese cotton textile imports to a limited embargo is available in the current report on economic conditions in Japan issued by the Department of Commerce," observes the Christian Science Monitor. It gives the latest record of Japanese-American trade. In December, last year, and January, this year, when Japanese textile exports started to flow into the United States in accelerated volume, the figures (in thousands of yen) were:

	1934	1935
Japanese sales to U. S.	36,477	34,677

In other words, Japan is buying three to four times as much as she is selling in her trade with the United States! Comparative figures do not show any diminution in Japanese purchases in the United States. On the contrary, they show a big increase. American exports to Japan in January, 1934, being only 51,877,000 yen, as compared with 113,464,000 yen in December, 1934, and 92,325,000 yen for January, 1935. Japan has thus doubled its purchases in a year. It has increased its sales, too; but not in the same proportion, the advance being from 25,892,000 yen in January, 1934, to 34,677,000 yen in January, 1935. Any action on the request for a limited embargo on imports of Japanese textiles which affect one section or one industry should take into account this thriving export trade, affecting several sections and industries—a trade which might be sacrificed by an embargo.

LORDS CALM

In the serene atmosphere of the British Upper Chamber noble Lords, with unruffled temper and much cogent argument, debated for two days the question of Socialism and the class war. Shades of their ancestors who haunt the Chamber might have been shocked by the admissions of peers, who have inherited the mantle of Toryism, that governments will not hesitate to plan and organise industry. The moderate Socialist, with his programme of gradualness, evidently has no terrors for the Conservatives of to-day. The Socialists of to-day are the brand usually connected with the name of Sir Stafford Cripps. Its programme spells revolution. It involves a sudden break with the present system, and a swift transition to another, untried in any country except Russia. It can be initiated only by a major political crisis. Both sides admit this, though the Socialists affirm that the crisis will be precipitated by resistance to their measures. So sweeping are the changes contemplated that few suppose they could be accomplished according to plan without resort to force. But one notes the calm and gentle academic reasoning with which those matters are discussed. For the fire-brand revolutionaries do not speak for all who call themselves Socialists. Nor do a majority of their political or trade union leaders desire the upheaval such conflict would bring. Nor is the danger so great as it seems, for as long as political leaders talk of reform by revolution their chances of winning a majority at the polls are slender. The more experienced know that well, and therefore refrain from the language of their more fiery associates.

DIAMONDS FROM THE DUSTHEAP

Some men are made poets by the times; others by the London Times. In an age of poetic fervour, like the Elizabethan, many men write poetry merely because it is the fashion to do so; and in the present there is at least one example of a gentleman who, when he thought that he was writing impeccable prose, was discovered by England's most famous newspaper to be composing poetry of a distinctly Wordsworthian quality. A leader writer on the Times culled from no more promising a source than the weather reports of the Meteorological Office the other day these striking lines—

The night was cold, and the exposed thermometer
Sank to the freezing point on Eskdalemuir.

The flattered author immediately volunteered the information that these lines were poetic only by (Continued on next column.)

the Royal Family in general associate themselves are invariably near to the heart of the people. To stand above party for the well-being of his subjects is something that King George has succeeded greatly in doing during his reign. And it is this circumstance which to-day invests both the Throne and the King himself with the loyal attachment and affection of Britons everywhere.

Our King and Queen on their Silver Jubilee

The King in Ireland and with the Prince of Wales.

Aside from the great war, one of the King's greatest worries was Ireland. Time and time again he sought to pacify that troubled people; he compromised, advised his ministers and did everything in his power, through personal appearance and through diplomacy to smooth the difficulties in the way of amicable relations between Ireland and the mother country.

Often the situation became so perilous that he actually risked his life by appearing in Irish cities. But he scorned this personal danger—in fact, the more assurance he had that any danger existed, the more was he determined to deliberately flout it.

Our picture at left shows him in the uniform of Admiral of the Fleet, as he acknowledged the cheers of the people of Belfast on the occasion of the opening of the Ulster parliament in 1921. It is significant that after every appearance the King made in Ireland, dissension lessened for a time.

The Prince of Wales always showed the greatest respect for his father. In practically every speech he made on his long tours

throughout the Empire, it was always the King, not the Prince, who spoke; the Prince made himself, in effect, merely a mouth-piece, though it is known beyond dispute that the Prince of Wales writes most of his own speeches.

THE JUBILEE IN HONGKONG

The Editor, Hongkong Telegraph

Sir,—As a hardened globe-trotter and keen Britisher, I think Hongkong is to be heartily congratulated on the splendid Jubilee manifestations put forward recently. These, in variety, beauty and as a spectacle exceed the splendour of such similar functions that it has been my fortune to see in various capitals and countries in Europe. Much work and organising ability has been shown here in these events, the result being a highly creditable showing, in this outpost of Empire.

One is particularly pleased with what the Chinese have done to add materially to the general rejoicing—their day and night processions were unique. The international aspect and goodwill shown in these rejoicings, must surely be most gratifying, such as the above-mentioned Chinese activities, the Japanese fireworks display, the various Consular bodies and from Macao—even to the brave showing of flags on the humble fishing junks at Aberdeen.

The shipping made a particularly fine show including His Majesty's vessels and merchant vessels of all nationalities, Chinese, Japanese, Dutch, Danish and Norwegian, with one marked exception, commented on by many, and that is that one vessel, apparently one of His Majesty's Royal Fleet Auxiliary units, lay in the harbour, seemingly taking no part in the general colourful manifestations day or night—surely a strange feature in such an essentially British event, in which the whole community of every nationality joined, ashore and afloat.

BOB WYATT SCORES SECOND CONSECUTIVE CENTURY

HIGHBURY MATCH TO-DAY

GAME AT EVERTON ON SATURDAY

Arrangements were recently finalised for two big representative football matches to be played in England during Jubilee week.

At Highbury to-day an England eleven will meet a team composed of Scottish players with English clubs. It was not found possible to carry out the original plan and organise a full international between England and Scotland as the pick of the Scottish players will then be on their way to Canada for their summer tour of the Dominion and U.S.A.

On Saturday a Football League side will meet a combined Welsh and Irish eleven at Everton.

The kick-off at Highbury will be 6.30 and at Everton 3.15.

All players will give their services free and will receive a silver souvenir.

Both matches will afford an opportunity of giving further trials to the two referees and under more exacting conditions than have yet been possible. Opponents of the scheme have urged that the test in the trial match at West Bromwich was not exhaustive. Their objection would be removed by having two referees in charge of the special Jubilee games.

FOOTBALL EXPERIMENT

DEATH-KNELL SOUNDED?

By Charles Buchan

London Apr. 8. At a meeting held before the International at Glasgow, the Football League Management Committee practically sounded the death-knell of the two referees experiment.

They issued a statement, after long discussion, asking the League clubs to consider the matter individually and to state their views at the annual meeting in May on the advisability of asking the F.A. to grant permission for the system to be tried out in the League next season. As the majority of the clubs are against it, it means the end of an unwanted and unnecessary idea.

At the same time as the League meeting, the various county F.A.s were in conference in another room of the same hotel. I was informed afterwards that one of the subjects discussed was the two referees business. The counties were unanimous in their disapproval and have decided to use every means in their power to ensure that it does not come into force. If ever there was an unwanted "baby," this experiment is it.

CRICKET HOPES AT OXFORD

A STRONG SIDE THIS YEAR

It is almost certain that Oxford University will have a strong cricket side this year, that is providing the players do not treat the game too seriously.

The season of 1935 is the young players' greatest opportunity and the universities will be expected to set the example and to prove that English cricket is still a game of enterprise and adventure.

At Oxford hope runs high, with the splendid material available. D. F. Walker, the new captain, though not so brilliant as his predecessor, E. G. H. Chalk, probably has a better cricket brain and a stronger flair for leadership.

N. S. Mitchell-Innes, of Somerset, is the secretary, and other old Blues in residence are J. W. Seamer, F. C. de Sarrai, A. P. Singleton, K. L. Jackson, and N. S. Knight. Three first-rate batsmen, a good all-rounder, a slow bowler of great promise, and a wicket-keeper with an unassuming style.

Then there are A. R. Legard, the slow bowler of two seasons ago, and J. H. Dyson, who after being picked last season, unaccountably lost his place. If Dyson could cultivate spin he would be an almost certain choice.

A USEFUL LEGACY

With nine such cricketers as the nucleus of the side, Walker has a very useful legacy.

Several of the seniors are ready to take advantage of a slip by one of the more fancied candidates. As batsmen there are C. de Jinks, the West Indian, who has not yet done justice to his unbounded ability, A. M. Lee, who has played for Hampshire, A. Hunt (Harrow), L. T. Burrows, the Jamaican Soccer Blue, Sir de Villiers-Graaf (South Africa), M. R. Barton (Winchester), R. G. Halliwell (Harrow), A. A. Duncan, J. G. Halliwell, and C. F. Grice, the Rugby Blue. All these players are good enough to force their way into the team.

Oxford need bowlers more than batsmen. Among the seniors, as slow bowlers, there are J. H. L. Aubrey-Fletcher, S. M. Kimpton, G. Parthasarathi, J. T. Burrows, and N. Cohen. All these can spin a ball, and Parthasarathi bowls the "googly."

Pastor bowlers include J. T. Reese, J. A. Brittain, I. R. Shield, and H. T. H. Snowden, who as a Freshman last year took six wickets in one innings.

PROMINENT FRESHMEN

Newcomers likely to make their mark are R. W. Walford, a hockey player, R. West, also from Rugby; T. G. L. Ballance (Uppingham); R. H. Angelo, the best cricketer at Westminster; J. L. Field (Charterhouse); and J. N. Grover, Winchester's clever wicket-keeper.

Other Freshmen of whom something should be heard are E. B. Calvert, (St. Lawrence, Ramsgate); R. C. M. Bennett, a slow bowler from Shrewsbury; R. E. Greenwell, (Ripon); M. D. R. Magill (Eton); J. A. Brett (Durham); and E. C. B. Gilman (Bradfield).

INVITATION FROM SHANGHAI

A TRIANGULAR CONTEST

At a recent meeting of the Council of the Shanghai Lawn Tennis Association it was decided to extend an invitation to Hongkong to send teams comprising ladies and men to Shanghai for an interport series.

The Tientsin Association are due to send a team to Shanghai this season and it is hoped that a triangular contest will be arranged.

H. W. SUTCLIFFE SCORES

Herbert Sutcliffe, the cricketer, protested at Bradford Police Court in the manner in which he was pulled up for exceeding the speed limit.

"The police officer," he said, "pulled me up for exceeding the speed limit. I do not think it is English."

The team then go for a brief tour before appearing against Cambridge at Lord's on July 8.

Bowlers engaged at the nets are Emmott Robinson (Yorkshire), Walters (Oxfordshire), and Edwards (Buckinghamshire).

BRILLIANT START TO SEASON

BY ENGLAND'S CAPTAIN

London, May 7.

Brilliant batting by R. E. S. Wyatt, the Warwickshire and England cricket captain, has been a feature of the opening of the current season. Following his first match he has now scored his second three-figure total. He was playing for his county side against Gloucestershire at Birmingham and in addition to his contribution three other players made centuries in this game.

Warwickshire, however, lost on the first innings after they had scored 228 runs. Of these Wyatt contributed 103 without losing his wicket. Gloucestershire replied with a score of 350, Sinfield being top scorer with 141 not out. When Warwickshire went to the wickets a second time they declared at 188 for seven, this time Dollery and Collins being the batsmen to worry the bowlers. The former scored exactly 100 and the latter 105 not out.

After a timid start to the season, Hammond came into his own in Gloucestershire's second innings and scored 66 not out in a total of 164 for four wickets.

There was only one other century scored in the county matches in addition to the four at Birmingham. This was at the Oval where Surrey won on first innings against Somerset. Wellard missed the three figure mark by a single run when Somerset were dismissed for 341.

The veteran Surrey batsman hit up 110 runs. After Somerset lost declared at 253 for six Surrey lost 232.

CLEVELAND INDIANS' TEAM TRAINING CAMP ACTIVITIES

New Orleans, May 6.

Those who suspect that Cleveland's pennant hopes were amputated by Bill Knickerbocker's appendix haven't been in New Orleans.

Down here they say that it was only a question of time until Roy Hughes replaced Knicker at shortstop, anyway. They take into consideration that Knickerbocker is one of the great stars of baseball, too.

Knickerbocker! Why, they go all the way back to Cotton-top Turner and Ray Chapman in describing Hughes. And to Turner and Napoleon Lajoie, Chapman and Bill Wambach in the past, a pretty picture of Hughes painted by Bozy Berger, Cleveland's new second base combination.

"I knew something would happen to poor Knickerbocker," says Buzz Weitzel, head of the Indians subsidiary in Zanesville, O., who discovered Hughes. "The young man was just meant to play short for Cleveland."

Hughes is a fighter, and has the habit of making sparkling plays in tight spots. Out of the amateur ranks just two years, an excellent Cincinnati Irishman, an excellent base runner of the club, says he's the best in this respect on the team, and his backers down here are saying that Knickerbocker, at his best, can't field with Hughes.

The youngster's swiftness is a bit ragged, although he hit 350 at one stage last season with New Orleans, and finished with a mark of 299.

BERGER SURE HE'LL STICK

Berger, the other half of the combination, is a tall fellow fresh from the University of Maryland. He hit .312 last season with the Pelicans, and drove in 94 runs. He is exceptionally fast.

He comes up for his second trial with the Indians labelled "a sucker for a curve."

If he fails to hit them it will not be for lack of practice, for that's just about all the handwork chap from Washington is likely to see for some time, and the Indians' mounders are giving him plenty to swing at down here.

His only folding fault is in connection with slow rollers hit straight at him. This he attributes to taking his eye off the ball in taking a peak at the runner. This is not a serious fault, although such a remarkable shortstop as Joe Cronin was unable to correct it until the last couple of years.

RESULTS AT A GLANCE

COUNTY CHAMPIONSHIP

Surrey (349 and 36 for 5) beat Somerset (341 and 253 for 6 declared) on first innings.
Gloucester (310 and 211 for 7) beat Sussex (288 and 232) by three wickets.

Gloucestershire (350 and 165 for 4) beat Warwickshire (228 and 368 for 7 declared) on first innings.

FRIENDLY MATCHES

South Africa (312 and 214 for 3 declared) beat Leicestershire (123 and 233) by 170 runs.
Oxford University (439) beat Worcestershire (191 and 235) by an innings and 13 runs.

Five wickets for 36, when stumps were drawn.

OXFORD'S BIG SCORE

Oxford University made an auspicious start with a total of 439 which enabled them to beat Worcestershire at Oxford by an innings and 13 runs. The County side were dismissed for 191 and then 235. A. P. Singleton taking five for 59 in the second innings.

The South African tourists followed up their victory against Worcestershire with a win from Leicestershire at Leicester where they had a margin of 170 runs in their favour. They knocked up 312 and then declared at 214 for three when Leicestershire were dismissed for 123. R. J. Crisp, the visitors' fast bowler, had five victims for 40 runs. In their second innings the English side were out for 233, the medium-paced spin bowler dismissed five batsmen for 49 runs.

It was left to Glamorgan to bring off the best performance of the series in their match against the strong Sussex side. Playing at Cardiff, the Welsh county won by three wickets. They scored 310 and 211 for seven in reply to the visitors' totals of 288 and 232.

THIS IS THE LAST OF OUR NEW FEATURE FOR BASEBALL FANS

to correct it until the last couple of years.

In regard to his reported weakness against curve ball pitchers, he says: "It's just one of those reputations a young player gets, and has to knock out of the opposition's head."

"Curve ball pitchers don't bother me any more than fast ball pitchers, or pitchers of any other type, as a matter of fact."

"In a recent exhibition game with Washington, Jack Russell struck me out with a curve, and then I came right back with successive singles on identical pitches."

"There are worse second basemen and hitters in the American League than Bozy Berger, and there isn't the slightest doubt in my mind about standing up."

It appears the kid has the required cockiness to stick around.

PITCHING OF THE BEST

The Indians are conceded to have probably the strongest pitching staff in the junior loop. Hildebrand, Harder, Hudlin, and Pearson are the four of the corps, but there are a couple of rookies in camp who may change the makeup of the starting staff.

One is Dennis Galehouse, who has been a wow with New Orleans the last two seasons. He pitched the Pelicans to victory in the Association pennants, and is due to stick in big time this season. He is a big right-hander.

The other is Al Milnar, a product of the Cleveland sandlots, who won 25 games in New Orleans last season in his second year of pro ball. An attack of appendicitis while in training camp here set him back a few steps, but the big left-hander will go north with the Indians and doubtless will start serving his stuff in the majors by the middle of May.

Thornton Lee, who spent all last season as a relief hurler with the team, has been showing a fast ball that eludes, and may break in as a starter.

The infield of the Indians probably will shape up with Trosky, the home run clouter, at first, Berger at second, Hughes at short, and Hais at third. Hais and Trosky will supply plenty of punch at the plate.

The outfield will be the same as last season in two spots—Joe Vosmik in left and Earl Averill in centre. The right field berth is being battled over by Milt Galatzer, a finished felder, but weak with the stick; Bruce Campbell, obtained from the Browns; and Ab Wright, brought up from Minneapolis.

Tiny Frankie Pytlak again will be No. 1 catcher, with Glenn Myatt holding second string berth. Three others are in camp wearing chest protectors are after a job behind the bat. They are Bill Bronzel, from Kansas City; Bob Garbark, obtained from Toledo; and Charlie (Greek) George, from New Orleans.

Few Changes In County Cricket Sides

By Ronald T. Symond

The few minor changes which have been notified by various cricket counties are unlikely to have immediate or material effect upon their fighting strength. For the most part progress will depend upon the prowess of players with whom we are already well familiar.

Kent, which of all counties reproduces best the jolly atmosphere of cricket, will enjoy the same abundance of batting strength, but will face the same problem of lacking a really good fast bowler to supplement the wizardries of Freeman.

To the galaxy of great batsmen headed by Woolley, Ames, and Todd, we may soon add the name of Fagg, a batsman not yet 40 years old who scored a thousand runs last season and who seems to be on the threshold of a great career.

B. H. Lyon, after so many seasons of yeoman service, is giving up the captaincy of Gloucester, as he cannot be certain of turning out regularly this season. D. E. A. Page will take his place as leader, but it is hoped that Lyon's useful batting contributions will often be available.

R. W. V. Robins, a player who enjoys every minute of his days in the sun, has been appointed captain of Middlesex, but N. Haig and H. J. Enthoven, whose joint leadership replaces, will not retire from active cricket. The county's amateur resources, which have always been great in number if not regular in attendance, will be augmented this year. Not only will G. O. Allen and I. A. R. Peckles be available, but also J. H. Human and H. G. Owen-Smith—two very useful additions to any team.

A. D. Baxter, the Scotland fast bowler, is also qualifying for Middlesex, so that when the county takes the field at full strength it will be full strength indeed.

Essex were handicapped last season inasmuch as Nichols, suffering from the effects of his trip to India, was not always fit enough to do himself full justice. Furthermore, he was often absent as a Test reserve. This season the county looks forward to better fortune and to a more successful use of its several bowlers of pace. C. Bray, who played only four times last year with an average of 56, hopes to be available more regularly.

PROFITABLE MOVE

Judging by last year's results, the abandonment of Leyton as county headquarters seems likely to prove itself a sound piece of policy.

It is hard to prophesy the immediate prospects of the Nottinghamshire team. All lovers of cricket hope ardently that the great old club will soon settle itself amicably into what may be called the county of counties.

No changes of any moment are reported from the Oval. This phrase, when we remember the retirement of Hobbs, sounds like saying, "All quiet on the Western Front" when the whole world is shaking, but the great batsman's withdrawal is by no means a new thing. It is a happy family under E. R. T. Holmes, but with their present resources scarcely strong enough to challenge for the county championship.

JAMES AS COACH

The outlook for the other counties remains much the same. Commutative weaknesses cannot be turned at one stroke into real strength. Northamptonshire are hoping that their two principal players, Bakewell and Clark, will show improved form after a winter's rest. K. C. James, the New Zealand wicket-keeper, is qualifying and is now acting as coach to the team.

Glamorgan have linked up with Monmouthshire, whose players are now qualified under the nearest county rule, so that the whole of South Wales is linked together for championship cricket purposes under the name of Glamorgan. J. C. Clay has made a good recovery after his operation for a leg injury.

Leicestershire will continue to lean heavily on the veterans Geary and Astill, whose form keeps up wonderfully well. C. S. Dempster, the great New Zealand batsman, is qualifying to play for the county. He will not be available for championship matches until next season, when his presence will make a considerable difference to the strength of the team.

Notts held their first practice in the middle of April. Larwood is here seen going out to the nets.

LARWOOD STARTS PRACTICE

FAST BOWLER FIT AGAIN

Larwood and Voce were among the Notts cricketers who turned up for the opening practice at Trent Bridge.

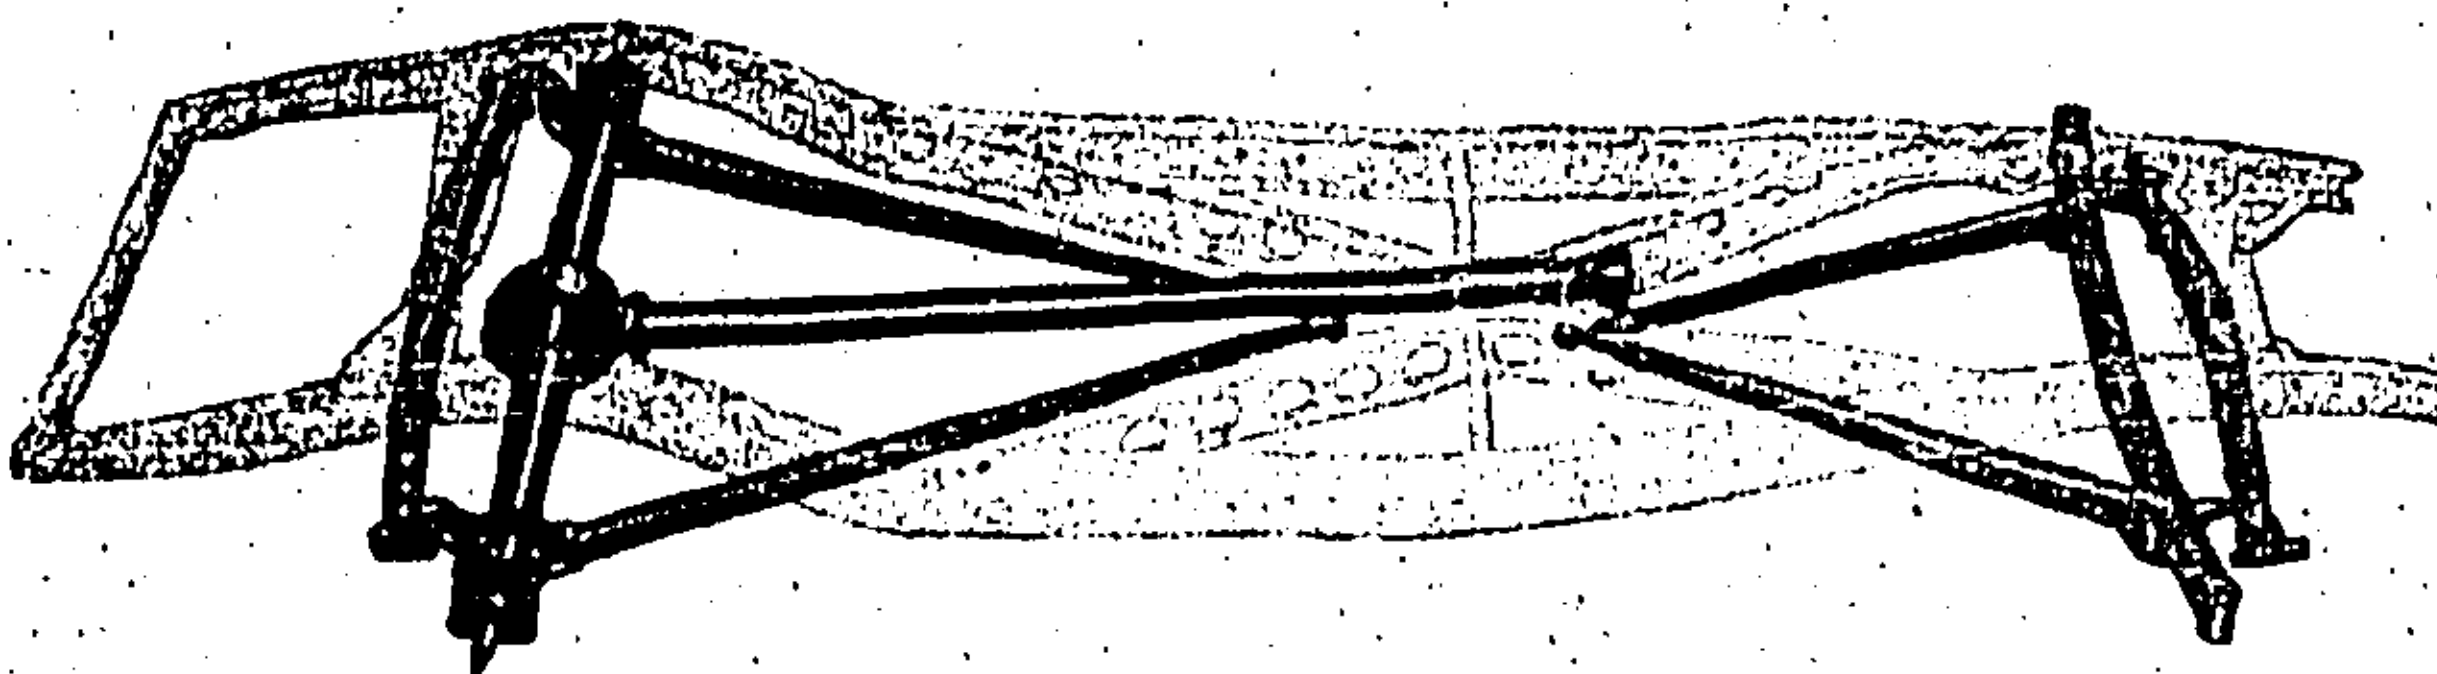

Larwood, on being asked whether his foot now gives him any trouble, replied: "Not a twinge. I feel splendid."

The only newcomers this season are Walker, right-arm medium-pace bowler, and Bradley, a left-arm slow bowler.

The first meeting of the new committee confirmed the decision of the late committee in appointing S. D. Rhodes and G. F. Heano as joint-captains for 1935.

Mr. Douglas McGrath was appointed chairman and Dr. R. G. Hogarth vice-chairman of the committee for 1935.

MANY OLD BLUES AVAILABLE

This year's Cambridge University side should be rather stronger in bowling than usual, as four of the Old Blues who will be in residence—G. W. Parker, the captain, M. Jahangir Khan, F. King, and J. W. T. Grimshaw—are bowlers. Actually Parker did little bowling for either Cambridge or Gloucester last year, but he is much better with the ball than many people imagine.

Jahangir Khan was a disappointment last year but he was suffering from a badly strained groin for most of the season and he blundered in attempting to bowl fast. With his short run the Indian is a medium-pace bowler. King is also medium pace and Grimshaw is slow left.

Of the seniors, J. H. Cameron is a spin bowler, D. C. Rought-Rought reasonably fast, M. A. Stainforth fast, N. E. W. Baker bowls leg breaks, as does J. M. Brocklebank, who played in the public schools match of 1933.

From these and any Freshmen who develop as bowlers the Light Blues should be able to secure a reasonably good attack. The difficulty may be to secure batsmen of the right type.

OPENING BAT

N. S. Hotchkiss, who was top of the Lincolnshire averages, will be well in the running for the vacancy as an opening batsman, while S. C. Griffiths, who played for Surrey against the University, is strongly fancied as a wicket-keeper.

H. P. Dinwiddie, the Rugby Blues, R. P. Nelson and D. G. Bousfield, W. Wooler, the Rugby Blue and Welsh International, and J. W. Anson, are other seniors who have impressed.

The Freshmen are well up to a good average with three of them outstanding—N. W. D. Yardley (St. Peter's), York, J. H. Pawle (Harrow), and B. R. Darowski, of Halesbury. All three played for the Public Schools against the Army. Yardley, who has already gained a Squash Blue, and almost succeeded in getting into the Cambridge Hockey team, was the first schoolboy to score a century in the Army match. He has also played for the Yorkshire 2nd XI.

Pawle was invariably succeeded at Lord's, while Darowski obtained four of the Army wickets, bowling a very good length.

The winning crew, above, are: J. N. Duckworth, coxswain; Z. Szilagyi, stroke; A. D. Kingsford, No. 7; W. G. R. M. Lewis, No. 8; J. H. T. Wilson, No. 9; M. P. Lannon, No. 4; D. G. Kingsford, No. 3; J. H. P. Dinwiddie, the Rugby Blues, R. P. Nelson and D. G. Bousfield, W. Wooler, the Rugby Blue and Welsh International, and J. W. Anson, are other seniors who have impressed.

The Freshmen are well up to a good average with three of them outstanding—N. W. D. Yardley (St. Peter's), York, J. H. Pawle (Harrow), and B. R. Darowski, of Halesbury. All three played for the Public Schools against the Army.

Yardley, who has already gained a Squash Blue, and almost succeeded in getting into the Cambridge Hockey team, was the first schoolboy to score a century in the Army match. He has also played for the Yorkshire 2nd XI.

Pawle was invariably succeeded at Lord's, while Darowski obtained four of the Army wickets, bowling a very good length.

The following alterations and additions to the classification lists are notified by the Hongkong Jockey Club:

Soldier of Honour to B Class, Cavalcade to C Class, Flamingo to D Class, Soldier of Fortune to E Class, Fudge to E Class, and In Good Time to E Class.

Two cases of Small-pox and three cases of Diphtheria were reported to the local health authorities during the three days ending May 6.

B. H. LYON ON MODERN CRICKET

WAITING FOR RUNS

Mr. Beverley Lyon, the ex-Gloucestershire county captain, referring to the state of modern cricket at the Gloucestershire club's annual dinner said that people were saying cricket was a rotten game.

"It is a rotten game when first-class batsmen on a plumb wicket play themselves in throughout the day," he said. "Batsmen go to the wicket without the intention of exerting themselves, and this waiting for runs to come instead of going out for them is being ingrained into the younger batsmen by the older generation."

"If my bread and butter depended on getting runs, I would not feel inclined to take a chance. Therefore I appeal to those who are responsible for the control of county clubs to give every encouragement and every credit to the young player who goes out for runs, for that is what cricket needs if it is to live down this public cry of a 'rotten game'."

The Rev. F. H. Gillingham, who for many years played for Essex, referred to Gloucestershire as the most historic club in county cricket, and remarked on the three ten-year eras of W. G. Grace, Gilbert Jessop, and Wally Hammond. These three players had dominated the cricket world in their generation.

At the dinner Hammond was presented with a cheque of £2,088, the proceeds of his benefit.

MORE MUI-TSAI CASES

GIRL PAID NO WAGES

On remand, a man named Leung Ho-wing, aged 57, appeared before Mr. Schofield at the Central Magistracy this morning in answer to a summons for keeping an unregistered mui-tsai, Wai Yan, alias Loi Hoi, aged 18.

Inspector H. W. Fraser, of the Secretariat for Chinese Affairs, stated that enquiries had been made regarding defendant, and it had been found that he was really a poor man. His son was an N.C.O. in the Chinese army at Kwangsi, while his nephew worked as a clerk in a Kwangsi bank.

Defendant was fined $10. Yu Li-shi, a married woman, residing at No. 2 Tin Lok Lane, first floor, appeared in answer to a summons for failing to pay wages to her registered mui-tsai, Au Shun-ye, aged 17.

Inspector Fraser stated that on the 23rd of last month a lady inspector went to defendant's house to see the girl, and she was told that the girl had not been paid any wages since May 21, 1935. The total amount owing to the girl was $52.65. The girl was exceptionally well-treated and did not wish to leave her employer.

Defendant stated that she could not afford to pay the girl at once. The girl had been told before that defendant could not afford to pay, but she stated that she did not wish to leave and said she would not ask for wages.

The Magistrate ordered defendant to pay monthly instalments of $10 for the girl's account to the Secretariat for Chinese Affairs.

BANISHEES IN COURT

ONE CAME FOR THE JUBILEE!

Choung Chan, 34, unemployed, charged with returning to the Colony after having been banished for five years from May 22, 1933, was brought before Mr. Grantham this morning and sentenced to five months' hard labour. Defendant said he came back to the Colony to collect some money. He had sent letters but had received no reply.

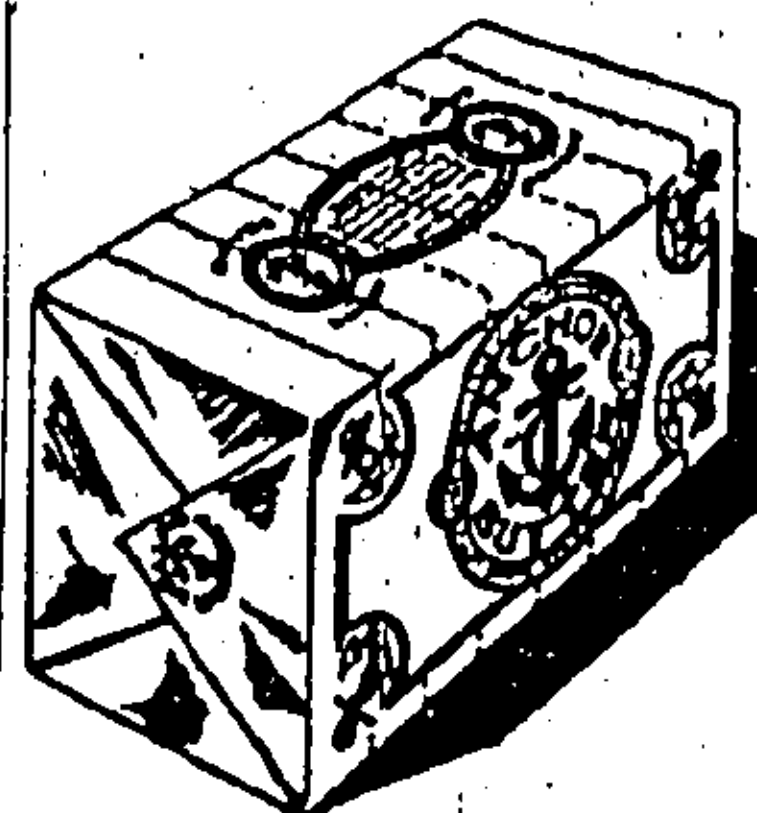

Another banishee, Wong Chuen, 18, who was banished on April 5 this year, for ten years, was sentenced to three months' hard labour. He said he came back to see the Jubilee procession.

Lai Sui-cho, 40, was also charged with returning to the Colony after having been banished on February 22 this year for ten years. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced to nine months' hard labour.

"You're an unsuccessful liar," remarked Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Police Court this morning when passing sentence of two months' hard labour on Cho Wah, unemployed, for stealing a bicycle from the Kwong Yuen Mau compradore shop, 32-33 Hap Hong Road, where the defendant's younger brother was employed. The bicycle was recovered in the kitchen of an empty flat at 53 Wai Ching Street. Defendant involved another man, Fong Fat, who was discharged as there was no evidence against him.

The wedding is announced to take place shortly of Mr. Justus Reupke, merchant, of Manila, and Mrs. Dora Tasto, who is en route to the Colony on board the M. S. Sauerland.

WANCHAI STABBING

Chan King-man alias Chan Wal was cross-examined by Mr. P. H. Sin with regard to his relationship with the complainant, Yu Sze-mul, at the continued hearing of the case in which Chan Shing-shun, complainant's husband, and Ng King are charged with having procured Wong Tai and Li Chau to cause grievous bodily harm to her on March 27.

The case was heard before Mr. W. Schofield, at the Central Magistracy yesterday afternoon.

Mr. J. A. Fraser, Assistant Attorney General, is appearing for the prosecution, and Mr. P. H. Sin for the defence of the two accused. Mr. M. K. Lo is watching the case on behalf of the complainant.

Under cross-examination by Mr. Sin, Chan King-man said that he did not intend returning to America, and he did not know if he would have gone later if Yu Sze-mul had gone back. In New York he often saw Yu Sze-mul at her place. He had never gone to see Yu Sze-mul at her house in Hongkong, after the first defendant had left for America last year. While in America he was in contact with Yu Sze-mul, but since their return to Hongkong he was only on friendly terms with her.

It was not true, said the witness, that the complainant's husband had asked him on many occasions not to pay so much attention to his concubine. Her husband had not raised any objection to his association with her, and she had never told him that her husband had objected to his seeing her. Witness stated that he was a married man and had a concubine, and he would certainly object if someone paid attention to his concubine, but the first defendant did not object to him paying attention to his concubine, because she was a prostitute in America. He had treated her as a prostitute in New York, but not in Hongkong, where he only regarded her as a friend, and there was no question of his being fond of her. He had given her money to spend in New York, but she had never given him any.

In reply to Mr. Fraser, witness said that the first defendant had not given him any money. He had, however, loaned money to the first defendant in New York, which had sometimes been repaid and sometimes not. The first defendant owed him $500 in Hongkong. His friendship with the complainant had never gone beyond the bounds of propriety.

Constantly Quarrelling

Lo Ngan, mother of the complainant, next testified that she was in the kitchen of No. 225 Jaffe Road on the afternoon of March 27, when her daughter came in and said something about her being stabbed. She helped her into a chair, and then ran down the stairs, where she picked up her handbag and overcoat and also two blades of a pair of scissors, which she later showed the Police. The first defendant was her son-in-law. Her daughter and defendant were constantly quarrelling over the sale of the house. They last quarrelled on the night of March 26. Her daughter had mentioned to her about returning to America on February 15. She thought the first defendant was in favour of it. Her daughter's object in returning to America was to start a laundry in partnership with someone else.

Witness stated to Mr. Sin, that her daughter never told her she was returning to America to become a prostitute. When her husband returned to America last year, Chan King-man only came on one occasion to see her, and then he only remained for a short while. She could not say whether her daughter and Chan were in love with each other.

Ho Kit, an amah on the first floor of No. 225 Jaffe Road, next deposed to having heard cries of "save life," and on peeping through the peep-hole in the front door had seen two men running down the stairs. On going out into the verandah, she saw them run in different directions.

A Chinese constable, Wong Kat, then said he had arrested the first defendant, and found, among other things, $405.05 in money and a bank book on him.

Yu Sze-mul, recalled, said she had identified the second defendant at an identification parade held in Victoria Gaol on April 15.

The hearing was adjourned to this afternoon.

SOLDIER SUED

A claim against Private A. Shord, of the 1st Battalion, Lincolnshire Regiment, came before the Pufano Judge, Mr. Justice R. E. Lindsell, at the Supreme Court yesterday, when Wong Pak-nam sought the return of a motor car lent to defendant, or $400, its value, and $50.24 for the repair of the vehicle.

Mr. C. E. R. Sanderson of Ruess & Co., appeared for defendant and after evidence had been given by both parties the case was adjourned to enable A. Black, of 79, Austin Road, to be called to give testimony as to his interpretation of conversations for plaintiff.

His Lordship decided that plaintiff could not claim for the repairs as they had not yet been paid. He could, however, claim for the return of the car or its value.

The car was stated to be held by Wallace Harper & Co. pending payment of the bill.

Plaintiff stated that he lent the car to defendant for a month from December 20 for which he was to receive $25. Defendant reported later that the car had broken down but that he would return it as soon as the repairs were completed. When witness went to see him in March he refused to pay the bill and tried to buy the car for $200.

Witness denied that he received $10 from Shord.

In the witness box Shord said he knew nothing about cars but a companion drove the car he hired from plaintiff and it appeared to be in good condition until it broke down. The vehicle had to be towed in from a village beyond Shatin, and he sent it

The album will contain superb illustrations of beauty spots in the Colony, and a section will be given over to photographs of the Jubilee celebrations.

In order to obtain the Jubilee photographs, Mr. Kobza and his staff employed eight cameras on Monday and yesterday.

Witness gave plaintiff a motor cycle and $10 cash for the hire for the first month, and he and his friends were to pay for the petrol and oil. He understood that plaintiff was to pay for all repairs that were not due to his, defendant's, negligence. He forthwith denied that he tried to buy the car.

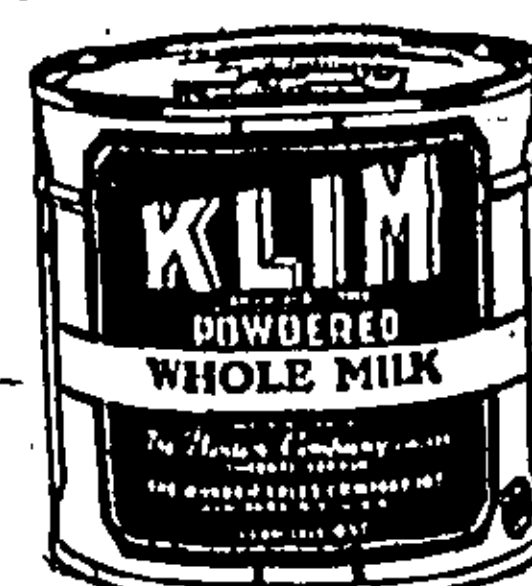

KLIM— FOR THE GROWING CHILD

Some interesting facts

Klim has long been recognized by doctors as a particularly suitable milk for the baby or the growing child.

The special process used in making Klim greatly reduces the size of the butterfat globules and makes the curds fine and soft and easy for the baby to digest.

Recently three Japanese scientists have studied the digestibility of Klim and have stated in a scientific article that "Klim showed the highest apparent digestibility."

COLONY'S JUBILEE REVELRY

THE LANTERN PROCESSION

FINE AERIAL DISPLAY

Hongkong's streets were packed
by hundreds of thousands of people last night when the magnificent Jubilee illuminations were again switched on and an additional attraction was provided by the Lantern Procession, which
was a most colourful spectacle.
The formation flights by aeroplanes were also a remarkably fine
feature, whilst the Japanese fireworks were exceedingly good.

Four lanterns of prodigious
size led the way, and, in their wake, followed a seemingly endless assortment of fish. Some were big, some small. Others were flat or round, but whatever the name, or origin, they evoked
general admiration by a highly decorative effect evolved by skilled patient craftsmanship.

Some of the specimens were not less than 30 feet long, and required two bearers. They were lighted from within by a dozen kerosene lamps, all of which added to the
weight under which the bearers
perceptibly staggered. East fish carried a lantern dangling from its jaws, and, as the whole school
of more than two hundred hurried by, dipping and rising at the whim of the carriers, the effect
produced was both weird and enchanting.

Illuminated Birds

The feathered tribe which had been ousted from the position of honour, now came up in massed flight. There were peacocks and roosters. Decorative treatment
had made of a type representing a lyre-bird something wondrous to behold, and artist's licence was also taken with a number of other creatures, which presented a pretty problem for any naturalist.
There was poetic charm in pairs
of birds on cross-trees, but they were generally overshadowed by
the much more prodigious creations represented in flight.

A special section was given to
the display of imitation curios,
and imitation produce of the orchard and field. Imitation
fruits and meats realistically modelled in paper mache, were carried by a number of hawkers.
A number of the floats appearing in the day processions, had been pressed into service. They were supplemented by a string of
more than twenty wheeled tableaux
presenting allegorical or legendary groups and all illuminated with lights.

The procession was brought up
in the rear by a 200 foot dragon—
the last of the Big Four appearing in the celebrations, and the only one of its kind to be illuminated. It was preceded by a host of attendants carrying lanterns,
while along its sinuous length floated fish and other smaller fry.

Nearly 700 exhibits figured in
the procession which, after filing
through the grounds of Government House, returned to Kennedy Town by a circuitous route which was thronged with thousands of spectators. The procession furnished a most interesting spectacle, and at Government House it was viewed by His Excellency the Governor and Lady Peel, and
an official party of guests.

JAPANESE DISPLAY

As was confidently anticipated,
the Japanese Residents Association provided a magnificent contribution to the Colony's Jubilee programme last night in a fireworks display in the middle of the harbour lasting from 9.30 p.m. to 11
p.m.

The arrangements were in the hands of Mr. Kozawa, himself an expert in pyrotechnic manufacture,
and the rockets used included 50
of six inches diameter and an equal number five inches in diameter.

A member of the Association
yesterday expressed regret that owing to the big demand for fireworks in Japan recently in connection with the visit of the Manchukuo Emperor, it was impossible to get any of the "big" ball rockets
which are four and a half feet
thick and cost about 1,600 yen.
The fireworks were let off from lighters at 1A buoy and included
every variety of coloured effects,
sparklers and cascades, "smokers"
and "cannon," whilst more delicate effects indicated that the Japanese are real masters of the artistry of fireworks.

Seen against the dark hue of the
night sky, with a pale crescent
moon, the fireworks appeared at
their very best.

Perhaps the most beautiful of
them all was the rocket
which burst high above the
harbour in a marvellous delinea-

Why Children Grind Their Teeth In Sleep.

When children grind their teeth it
most usually is a sign that they are troubled with worms. Other symptoms are irregular appetite, bad breath, pain in and swelling of the abdomen, irritation in the nose, failure
to make proper progress in development. Administered for a few days
Baby's Own Tablets drive out worms,
and a marked improvement in appetite
and general health speedily follows.

As a remedy for infantile indigestion, constipation, colic, vomiting,
diarrhoea and simple fever these
tasteless little tablets have no equal.
They allay the pains of teething
almost as if by magic, bring restful comforting sleep in a natural way, are guaranteed free from opiates, narcotics or other injurious drugs. Of chemists everywhere.

Baby's Own Tablets.

tion of a petalled flower momentarily paling all lights before fading into blackness. Each time
this astral flower appeared the huge crowds gasped their admiration.

Another intriguing item was the falling globe of light which became twin globes whilst falling
and then separated again into four
and so on until the sea drowned
them all. Showers of different hued sparks appeared, in the midst
of which whirling snappers made
a circle of flame. Other fireworks
spurred into falling cascades or took on the wild and graceful shapes of willow trees drifting
through the air with gleaming
smoke behind them.

Searchlights played continually
across the scene, now touching up
a decorated ferry boat or launch,
adding a brighter hue to the fire
floating through the atmosphere,
or picking out a brilliant path
across the heart of the Peak.

The fire floats were also in evidence again, keeping up a curtain
of water on which multicoloured
lights were trained with exquisite
and beautiful results.

His Excellency the Governor and
his party enjoyed the unique
spectacle from Government House, where a perfect view of the Japanese exhibition of friendliness was obtained.

TO THE CHILDREN

Gilt medals commemorating the Jubilee were distributed to Hongkong school children on Monday morning, when the Headmasters
of the various schools read an address prepared by His Excellency the Governor and circularised to all the schools in the Colony. The address was as follows:

"This year the whole of the great British Empire will celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary
of the accession of our beloved
King George V to the throne and
in all parts of the Empire there
will be great rejoicings that His Majesty has been spared still to reign over us.

"The British Empire is one of
the greatest empires that the world has ever seen and it extends to the most distant parts of the earth. It comprises many races and many creeds and yet
it shows a wonderful unity in its great loyalty to that Empire and
more especially to the Throne.

"The words 'God Save The King' which are constantly repeated throughout the Empire are
no empty formula; they come from the hearts of His Majesty's subjects all of whom earnestly hope that he will long reign over
us.

"The loyalty and devotion of his subjects are based not merely on long tradition, not merely on the fact that the King upholds the principles of Liberty and Justice,
but also on the firm knowledge
that he regards himself as, and is in fact the Father of his people. He has a great knowledge
of the joys and sorrows of his subjects throughout his vast Empire, and readily shows his
sympathy therewith.

"In these days when the idea of
service is universally stressed the King consistently sets a noble example and has indeed never spared himself in his determination to serve his people to the utmost of his power.

"In this work he has always had
the whole-hearted support of our
gracious Queen Mary who,
throughout the twenty-five years
during which he has reigned has served His Majesty with true
wifely devotion and co-operated
with him in untiring consideration of his subjects. They both have well earned and possess in full the love of their people.

"The future of our Empire will

CONTRACT BRIDGE

Contract Problem

By W. E. McKenney

There are a lot of people who tell you that a husband and wife should not play bridge together. Well, the next time you hear someone make
that remark, I wish you would ask
them if they have ever heard of
Mr. and Mrs. James H. Lemon of
Washington, D. C.

Most players attract attention
because they win championships,
but these two have established a reputation as the "Bridge Sweethearts" of America, due to their
table.

By the way, they also win their share of championships. At present they hold the national mixed

team-of-four championship, and
down in Baltimore, recently, their team won the Maryland state team
title.

After their victory at Baltimore,
I asked Mrs. Lemon how it was
that she and her husband avoided
arguments at the bridge table.
Her reply was "Jim never falls me at a critical time," and to prove it,
she gave me to-day's hand.

The Play

Let me explain the hand to you in
her own words.

"My opening lead was the ace of clubs. I knew that would hold the trick, as both East and West had bid clubs. But when the dummy went down, I immediately thought
I had made a bad double.

"Certainly East, to justify his bid, had to have at least five diamonds to the ace, and the king of spades, in which case the only other trick that I could take would
be the king of hearts.

"But during the course of the bidding Jim had supported my heart bid. Well, he simply had to have the queen of hearts, and so
led a small heart, which he won with
the queen.

Today's Contract Problem

Here's a hand with a lot of bidding. Can you get the many interesting angles of bidding that it presents? Can
six hearts be made with a diamond opening and a club return?

U. S. SENATE APPROVES INFLATION

PATMAN BILL GETS MAJORITY

ROOSEVELT TO VETO

The Senate to-day passed the Patman Bill, which provides for currency inflation in order that new money may be issued to pay War veterans' bonuses.

Washington, May 7. Disregarding the warnings that President Roosevelt would veto any such legislation, the Senate to-day aligned itself with the House of Representatives by voting for an immediate cash payment of a bonus to War veterans.

By the Vinson plan, the Treasury is to decide the means whereby the bonus payments are to be made. By the Patman Bill, the Administration must inflate the nation's currency, issuing new paper money. The Senate must choose between these two measures.

There was a third alternative, the Harrison amendment, but this has now been set aside by the Senate division to-day, which by 54 to 30 supported the Patman plan. The Harrison amendment suggested the exchange of bonus certificates for three per cent. bonds.—Reuter.

PATMAN BILL PASSED

Washington, May 7. By a vote of 65 to 33, the Senate to-day passed the Patman inflationary payment of the veterans' bonus.

The Bill now goes to the White House where a veto is considered to be almost certain.

Members of the Administration, however, forecast that the Senate will make efforts to sustain the Bill.—United Press.

FINE GIFT TO KING'S FUND

SIR CHARLES HYDE'S £30,000 DONATION

London, May 7. Donations to King George's Jubilee Trust now exceed £600,000. Sir Charles Hyde has generously given £30,000 worth of railway stock.—Reuter.

The big naval and military review at Happy Valley yesterday was in charge of H.E. Major General O. C. Borrett, G.O.C. China Command, and not Lieut.-Col. Hindson, as stated.

Few Copies Still Available

Our readers will doubtless be interested to learn that there are available a limited number of the special 12-page Silver Jubilee Supplement issued by the S.C.M. Post and Hongkong Telegraph, containing numerous illustrations and articles covering all aspects of His Majesty's reign. These may be obtained on application at ten cents per copy.

An inspiring spectacle was provided by the Royal Air Force in connection with the Jubilee last night when three flights of three machines, and one of six, proceeded from the harbour in a westerly direction, later joining together in forming a magnificent outline of a crown.

The sight as the formation returned to the Colony shortly after dusk, the remarkable precision in maintaining the representation, and the brilliant effect as each machine suddenly burst into a golden blaze, will long be remembered by those who were fortunate enough to witness the sight. To add to the beauty of the effect, green and red lights dropped from the blazing crown.

After travelling some distance, the formation broke up, and flying in twos and threes was carried out, the display culminating in stunting by individual planes, evoking many expressions of admiration from the thousands lining the Praya and stationed at points of vantage. It was indeed a splendid and thrilling spectacle.

ISLAND FOR JAPAN

Tokyo, May 7. Regarding the report that Soviet Russia is being persuaded to surrender Northern Saghalien Island to Japan, a spokesman of the Japanese Foreign Office declared to-day that the Japanese Government had not been offered any practicable terms by the Soviet Government in this connection. Japan was quite willing to buy over it if fair terms were available from the Soviet Government, however.—Central News.

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Newsprint Ordinance, 1891. Received, May 8, 10 a.m.)

His career has been a notable one. He first saw action in China, where he served with distinction. In 1906 he was promoted to Captain and in 1917 to Rear-Admiral, and in that capacity he planned and executed the brilliant naval attack upon Zeebrugge and Ostend, for the success of which he received a knighthood.

In April, 1919, he was appointed Rear-Admiral commanding the Battle Cruiser Squadron, Atlantic Fleet, in which capacity he served until 1921. In August of that year he received a baronetcy and a grant of £10,000.

From October, 1921 to 1925, he was Deputy Chief of Naval Staff, and in 1926 he was promoted Admiral. In 1930 he was made Admiral of the Fleet. In the following year he struck his flag.—Reuter Special.
